Governor Bill Lee asked businesses and citizens to hang on for two more weeks in response to the COVID-19 virus.

The original order, which went into effect on March 23 at midnight, put the statewide "safe at home" order into effect, restricting commercial ventures that cannot safely operate or were deemed non-essential.

The expiration of the order on April 6 was then extended on March 30 to April 14, and with the state still staring the pandemic in the face on April 13, Lee moved the date to April 30.

"We have to remain vigilant with social distancing, or the disease could come roaring back and erase our progress," Lee said.

Hardeman County Mayor Jimmy Sain said the county is following the mandate, which includes barring gatherings of 10 people or more, Things you might need to know:

Earlier in the month Lee extended the closing of schools to April 24. but on April 15, Lee recommended schools stay closed for the remainder of the year.

"Students have lost a significant amount of school time," said Lee, noting a task force will be formed to tackle the issues that will arise from the recommendation.

At press time on April 15, the state website had Hardeman County with seven listed as positive for the virus, with three recovered and no deaths due to the virus. The site said 153 tests had been conducted in the county.

Unexpected state funding shifts to fight the Coronavirus pandemic has left a major funding gap for Tennessee Wildlife Federation's Hunters for the Hungry program.

Hunters for the Hungry provides more than half a million servings of lean, healthy protein to Tennesseans in need each year. When hunters harvest a deer, they can donate it to Hunters for the Hungry at a participating processor. The deer is then processed and the venison is delivered to hunger relief organizations to be distributed to hungry children and families. One deer provides as many as 168 servings of venison. With unemployment skyrocketing throughout the state, the demand on food banks and soup kitchens will be higher than ever before. And with schools shut down, kids will be without Hunters for the Hungry snack sticks—a protein-packed, ready-to-eat food given to kids at school to take home on weekends.

Without state funding, the pro-

Whiteville Gets Downtown Improvement Grant

The Tennessee Department of Economic and Community Development has selected Whiteville as one of 10 Tennessee communities to participate in the seventh round of the Tennessee Downtowns program.

Commissioner Bob Rolfe announced Whiteville, along with Collinwood, Covington, Decaturville, Dunlap, Halls, Hartsville, Madisonville, Somerville, and South Pittsburg as recipients.

"TNECD remains focused on strengthening rural Tennessee, and for many communities, that means ensuring their historic downtowns are vibrant," Rolfe said. "The Tennessee Downtowns program is an essential part of our rural development strategy, and we look forward to working with these ten new Tennessee Downtowns as they develop sustainable renewal efforts in their commercial districts."

The Tennessee Downtowns program helps local communities revitalize traditional commercial districts, enhance community livability, spur job creation and maintain the historic character of downtown districts. The twoyear program coaches selected communities and their steering committees through the steps of launching effective renewal efforts. Tennessee Downtowns includes community training in the Main Street America program and a $15,000 grant for a downtown improvement project.

"We are proud to welcome ten new communities into the Tennessee Downtowns program and look forward to working with them on their goals for downtown revitalization," Main Street Program Director Nancy Wil-

The ten newly selected communities all have downtown commercial districts established at least 50 years ago and demonstrated their readiness to organize efforts for downtown revitalization according to Main Street America principles. The highly competitive selection process was based on historic commercial resources, economic and physical need, demonstrated local effort, overall presentation and probability of success.

Tennessee Downtown communities that complete the program are eligible for Commercial Façade Improvement Grants as well as Main Street designation. To date, six Tennessee Downtowns have advanced to the Main Street program.

gram cannot accommodate the increased need that is sure to come, and our neighbors will go hungry.

A donation at tnwf.org/hungry—$32 will provide 100 servings of lean, healthful venison to hungry Tennesseans.

During the 2019 season, 140,401 pounds of venison was donated to food banks and emergency shelters. That's enough to provide 561,604 servings to families statewide.

"There will always be a need Hunters for the Hungry can fill," said Hunters for the Hungry program manager, Matt Simcox.

"But this year, there will be more families needing help than ever before."

"It is simply not an option for our neighbors to go hungry," said Kendall McCarter, chief development officer for Tennessee Wildlife Federation.

The Next Event by Jeff Capshaw

Last week's column naturally featured the Easter theme of Jesus' resurrection. Orthodox Christians understand it to be a literal, physical and bodily resurrection from the dead. If it were not that, then the Easter story is just a comforting myth. Even as Paul said in I Corinthians 15:16-18, ". . . if the dead are not raised, not even Christ has been raised. And if Christ has not been raised, your faith is futile and you are still in your sins. Then those also who have fallen asleep in Christ have perished" (ESV).

The next significant event in the Life of Christ was his Ascension. Luke wrote, "so when they had come together, they asked him, "Lord, will you at this time restore the kingdom to Israel?" He said to them, "It is not for you to know times or seasons that the Father has fixed by his own authority. But you will receive power when the Holy Spirit has come upon you, and you will be my witnesses in Jerusalem and in all Judea and Samaria, and to the end of the earth." And when he had said these things, as they were looking on, he was lifted up, and a cloud took him out of their sight. And while they were gazing into heaven as he went, behold, two men stood by them in white robes, and said, "Men of Galilee, why do you stand looking into heaven? This Jesus, who was taken up from you into heaven, will come in the same way as you saw him go into heaven" (Acts 1:6-11).

Jesus' followers were misguided about his intentions. They thought he was going to wrest rule from the Roman Empire and reestablish his Kingdom with a fully functional government like that of Ancient Israel. Eventually, he will. But then wasn't the time. Not only that, but he told his followers not to speculate about when his physical, bodily reign on earth will commence.

Instead, he gave them a promise. He said that the Holy Spirit would come to indwell them and empower them for a special service in his spiritual kingdom as primarily displayed in the Church. The specific service for which the Spirit's empowerment is clear. It was/is for being Jesus "witnesses."

The word for "witness" (Greek-marturia) carries the idea of testifying about someone or something. In Luke's context, the primary testimony of the disciples was that of "eye-witnesses" of his resurrection, more especially during the 40 days he was on earth before his ascension. So, what are the lessons?

First, believers should not speculate about things only known to God himself, especially those things related to the consummation of the ages. Second, the Holy Spirit empowers believers for service, especially for giving witness to the Gospel. As Paul said, it is "God who works in you both to will and to do his good pleasure" (Philippians 2:13).

Finally, the primary focus of New Testament witnessing ought to be about the Gospel and what the Church celebrates at Easter, Jesus' death, burial and resurrection.

Assurance by David Coy

Some are saying that we are living in a frightening time. While we may describe much of what we have to endure as uncertain, we may apply what we know to make our uncertainty less uncertain and less frightening. E.L.Godkin, once editor of the New York Evening Post, after the death of a young daughter, wrote: "I know that things happen for the best, and that our lives are guided by a beneficent Hand. When my little darling left her father's house for the last time Friday, I felt assured that somewhere, a wise and better Father awaited her, and that, in His care, she would one day become all—more than all—that I rashly and fondly hoped to see her in mine" We have high expectations of what we plan and desire to accomplish in life, whether vocationally or personally. As we all know, life does not always turn out as planned. My day often looks completely different at the end than it did when it started.

One principle that will help to keep us in a positive mindset even during the most uncertain, fearful, and darkest time is assurance. The word assurance is defined as 'most certain confidence, full assurance, or conviction. Without hope, and assurance that there can be a better tomorrow in the horizon we might slide into despair, and that is a place we do not want to allow ourselves to go. If we need help, seek it no matter what. Acknowledge that we need help if we cannot maintain hope and confidence in our own mind by ourselves. We are not an island to ourselves and we should not live as if we can do everything or we cannot accomplish keeping hope alive in our hearts. Although an assailant may overpower one person, two can withstand him. Moreover, a three-stranded cord is not quickly broken (Eccl 4:12). This is Sunrise Aftercare, sunrise@sfdcares.com

BLT Stuffed Avocados

Ingredients

4 strips thick-cut bacon

1 cup cubed bread (Fresh, Sourdough, Or Other Crusty Bread) 1 cup chopped tomatoes

1 cup romaine lettuce (Loosely Packed Chopped)

2 tablespoons mayonnaise

4 avocados (Large Ripe) Sea salt and cracked pepper

Directions

To get started, cook four slices of thick-cut bacon in a skillet. While that cooks, cut two slices of sourdough bread into small cubes. When the bacon is crisp and finished cooking, remove to a paper towel lined plate and toss the bread cubes into the skillet. Cook for about five minutes, tossing often, until the croutons are golden and crisp. Chop the cooled crispy bacon up into small pieces. Combine bacon, bacon grease and croutons.

To prepare the tomatoes, slice through the middle hemisphere and push out the seeds and juice with your finger or a butter knife. Chop the tomatoes into small pieces, as well as some fresh romaine lettuce. Combine all the ingredients in a bowl. Add a couple tablespoons of mayo, a sprinkle of salt, and some freshly cracked black pepper. Stir it all together to coat. The stuffing is now done!

Slice 3 or 4 avocados in half through the middle, around the pit and remove pit. Sprinkle the tops of the avocados with sea salt. Spoon a couple heaps of BLT filling into all the avocado halves.

The Hardeman County Sheriff's Department

John Doolen Sheriff

As the Hardeman County Sheriff's Office responds to Coronavirus 2019 (COVID-19) pandemic, the men and women of the HCSO remain vigilant and steadfast in our commitment to maintain public safety, uphold the law and safeguard the well-being of our citizens. Our agency is taking proactive measures to help reduce unnecessary potential, for exposure or spread of COVID-19. Here are some of the measures the HCSO are taking to protect sworn members, civilian staff and the public:

- HCSO will be implementing a temporary report call center. The public is requested to call our office at (731) 658-3971, where dispatch will direct the call accordingly based on information provided by the caller. All non-emergency report calls will be handled via telephone, minimizing person-to-person contact. We will still respond to all emergency calls for service and calls where a caller requests an officer to make scene in person.
- Walk-in reports will no longer be facilitated at the Criminal Justice Complex unless it requires emergency assistance to be dispatched, until further notice.
- On-site video visitation at the CJC has been suspended until further notice. Family members may still schedule at-home internet video visits with inmates housed at the Hardeman County CJC. The kiosk for adding money to inmate phone accounts is also closed. Please contact City Tele Coin at (800) 682-0707, if you need assistance with online visits or to add money to inmate phone accounts.
- The kiosk for commissary is also closed. Please visit www.tigercommissary.com to add money to an inmate's commissary account. Orders cannot be made on the website and must be placed by the inmate at the CJC.
- If you have been issued a misdemeanor citation to appear for booking, please contact (731) 228-3016 for a booking date.
- Most courts have been temporarily suspended. If you have any questions regarding General Sessions or Circuit Court, please contact the Circuit Court Clerk's Office at (731) 658-6524.

The public should rest assured that our services remain available. We are continuing to function as a law enforcement agency under the unusual, tumultuous circumstances we all are facing. The HCSO is taking these precautions to ensure that we can continue to provide our services to the citizens of Hardeman County throughout the duration of this national crisis.

Numbering the People in 2020

About 64 million households across the nation are receiving a paper questionnaire in the coming days as the U.S. Census Bureau continues to ensure responding to the census is easier than ever. 47.1 percent of households in Tennessee have already responded to the 2020 Census, which can be compared to the 46.7 percent that have responded nationwide. The remaining households will receive a paper questionnaire starting this week.

"If you're among the nearly half of all the nation's households that have responded already, thank you!" said Census Bureau Director Dr. Steven Dillingham. "It has never been easier to respond on your own, whether online at 2020census.gov, over the phone, or by mail — all without having to meet a census taker. It's something everyone can do while practicing social distancing at home to make a difference today, tomorrow and the next 10 years."

While nearly half of all households have responded online to the 2020 Census, some may prefer to receive a paper questionnaire. About 22% of the country received a paper form at the beginning of the census.

Some areas where census takers were originally going to hand-deliver forms in person will now receive a letter in the mail from the Census Bureau reminding them to participate, including many households in Puerto Rico. Even if households don't receive a letter in the mail, the Census Bureau will drop off a census invitation and paper form as soon as it is safe to do so. Census takers will also follow up with all households that do not respond on their

The U.S. Constitution mandates a census of the population every 10 years. Responding to the 2020 Census is easy, safe and important, and it's key to shaping the future of communities. COMMUNITY NEWS

Silerton Mary Lynn Lambert 609-6455 Joie Freeman, Brenda Cooper and Sarah Chandler continues to covet your prayers.

The Silerton Fire Department fund-raising buffet meal that had been scheduled for April 25 has been postponed until further notice.

A big shout out to Bill Siler for his volunteer work in picking up litter along Hwy 125 from his house to the Welcome to Silerton sign. It has been observed that someone is picking up litter on the Bethel Church Road. The work of these volunteers is very much noticed and appreciated. Let's do our part to help in keeping our town attractive.

Andy Jordan was awarded the "Yard of the Month" for all the ornamental grass he has planted for erosion control and for keeping his yard neat. It is always so nice to see well-manicured yards in our town.

During this stay-at home time, I found another interesting article that was written by staff reporter, Rheta Johnson, in June 1985 in the Jackson Sun. For those people who picked up their mail at the Silerton post office, I feel this will bring back many memories. Ms. Johnson writes, "the beets are beginning to rumble inside the old black pressure cooker. The Frigidaire is humming allegro its familiar electric tune. Bivian Naylor's kitchen is alive with sound and smell. Postal patrons happen by, one by one, to mail a letter or buy a money order. Mrs. Naylor's kitchen and the Silerton Post office are one and the same. Mrs. Naylor states, 'It works out just fine. We're just one big family here.' Mrs. Naylor is a polite, soft-spoken woman with canned goods stacked on her linoleum floor. For 15 years she has run the post office from what is really the most intimate of family rooms. The mail is pigeonholed against a paneled wall; an ancient scale sits nearby. At age 73, Mrs. Naylor could retire, of course. But to close her kitchen to the public probably would mean Silerton, a town of about 100 residents northeast of Bolivar, becoming just another rural route, losing its last proof of identity. 'We lost our railroad. We did have six or seven stores and two barbershops. Now, we just have one little grocery.' Mrs. Naylor states that is the reason she hates to retire." As history tells, the post office was closed and Silerton is now a Henderson rural route. The store closed. Even though there isn't a lot of activity going on, Silerton's memories last a lifetime.

I would appreciate if you would call and share some of your news and thoughts or memories so we can stay connected.

Hello from Toone! I hope everyone is holding up well in your quarantine situations. I suppose by now we are all beginning to understand how it feels to be under house arrest, but without having to wear those pesky ankle bracelets, of course! Just keep in mind that our lives will someday return to a more defined sense of reality. Although we had an active day of hard rain on Easter Sunday, we lucked-out on the first wave of the tornadic storms that went south of us, and later that night, we dodged a silver bullet on the second round of storms that hit other areas in West Tennessee very hard. Hopefully, we will not have to deal with anything that major for a while. Just enjoy every clear day we have and take advantage of the sunshine when possible.

Speaking of Easter, I believe we can all agree that this year was very different for everyone. The traditional church services, family meals, Easter egg hunts and other events associated with Easter were all quite different. Church services were held online, Easter egg hunts, for the most part, were held in people's yards with only their own children taking part, and Easter Sunday meals were confined to immediate family only. But as different as things were this year, I had several reports of people becoming quite creative with their Easter celebrations. Our family tradition has always been a delicious potluck meal followed by an egg hunt, with $ in most of the eggs. This year the family adapted to the current situation with an online egg hunt where family members showed their decorated eggs along with photos of them hiding and finding them. It helped to make Easter a more fun day while stuck inside due to the weather. It appears that necessity can bring out the creative side of people! Let us know what you did for your family Easter celebrations so we can share your ideas with your neighbors. Happy Belated Birthday to our friend and neighbor, Debbie Ubelhor, April 14. Debbie and Luke are enjoying their retirement and staying busy with grandchildren and farm projects. I hope you all will continue to wash your hands often, cover your coughs and sneezes, keep your "social distance, and STAY SAFE!! Until next time. . . talk to your neighbors!

Hello to all! I pray everyone is doing well. My job is consider essential so I have gone to work every day but I did not realize just how much I must have been going and doing when I was not at work before this quarantine. I have done several projects around my house, I have taken the time to try new recipes for my family, but the most important thing I have done is study my Bible more and praying. Now you have to understand I teach Sunday School and a class on Wednesday night and one would think that an individual was doing plenty of studying but I am telling you I was not doing enough. I will be glad when all this virus stuff is over but I am thankful for the time it has given me to help me realize I have not being doing all I can do and for that I am thankful.

I know there are some who can't get out and there are those who don't need to even try. Our church is looking for ways to help others during this time, if you know of someone who needs help please call me and I will let Bro. Matt know, we will do all we can to help. I hope we won't have to cancel too many more mission projects but we will just take one day at a time. Please remember that a lot of churches are doing on line sermons on Sunday mornings. I hope you will take the time to listen to at least one if not more.

Prayer is a powerful thing and I know there are a lot of wonderful folks who are happy to pray for you or someone you know. Please continue to life the following people up in your prayers: Lynn Allen, Joe Anderson, Mimi Anderson, Hugholene Barnes, Ricky Bass, Diane Cross, Sue Day, Norma Emerson, Rich Emerson, Robert Gibson, Crystal Grantham, Thomas Green, Sue Hall, James Hanna, Marilyn Hanna, Richard Hazelwood, Justin Hodge, Sue Hodge, Willis Hornsby, Jo Edna Howell, Charley Johnson, Ann Kelly, Aubrey King, Lucy King, Debbie Laster, Sawyer Jane Luttrell, Bobbie McBride, Betty McMahan, Orville McMahan, Margie Moore, Carolyn Morgan, Evan Nield, Lockie Newman, Joyce Overton, Gay Pierce, Gail Pope, Stacy Spence, Ronna Spoon, Susan Thompson, Benjamin Tucker, Martyn Venuti, Tommy Warner, Eddie Webb, Jennifer Wheeler, Piper Williams, the men and women who serve our country, the families of the ones who are fighting cancer, all the health care workers, the leaders of our country and especially the ones who are lost.

Take therefore no thought for the morrow; for the morrow shall take thought for the things of itself. Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof." Praise God!!

What Should Retirees Consider Doing in a Down Market?

The health aspect of the Coronavirus affects everyone – we're all concerned about our well-being and those of our loved ones and communities. However, the economic impact may vary among different age groups – and if you're retired or about to retire, you might have some special concerns about starting to draw income from your investments when the financial markets are down. What moves should you consider making?

Here are a few suggestions:

Review your strategy (and avoid making major changes). During a market downturn, you might be tempted to "do something" - and for many people, that "something" is selling stocks to cut their losses. But this is more of an emotional response than a logical one, because your stocks are long-term investments, and by selling them when they're down, you're basically locking in your losses. Instead, try to address your current income needs by the cash, cash equivalents and short-term fixed-income investments in your portfolio, along with other sources, such as Social Security, dividends and interest, and even your pension, if you have one.

Review your withdrawal rate. When you retire, you need to determine how much you can withdraw each year from your retirement accounts, such as your IRA and 401(k), without running the risk of outliving your money. Before the market downturn, you might have established an appropriate withdrawal rate for your needs. Suppose, for example, this rate was 4%. However, given the recent fluctuations in the markets, your portfolio's value may have declined, meaning your withdrawals may be higher as a percentage of your portfolio. Therefore, you might consider adjusting your withdrawal rate downward, or, as an alternative, look for ways to cut down on your spending in the short term. With the stay-at-home measures being undertaken across the country, you may already have cut down spending in areas such as traveling, entertainment and dining out, so you may only have to make a few adjustments.

Review your reliance rate. Your reliance rate is how much you rely on your investment portfolio for your income needs. For example, if you need $60,000 in income each year and you're getting $40,000 of that from your portfolio, your reliance rate is 66%. The higher your reliance rate, the more sensitive you may be to fluctuations in investment prices. If your risk tolerance has been greatly tested by the recent downturn and you don't have much flexibility with your expenses, you might look for ways of lowering your reliance rate, such as certain annuities, which can provide a guaranteed lifetime income regardless of what's happing in the financial markets.

You may want to consult with a financial professional to discuss the above suggestions and determine what other moves you might need to make. As a retiree, or near-retiree, it can be unsettling to start tapping into your resources when the financial markets are so turbulent. But if you've prepared or you're willing to explore new courses of action, you can move into your golden years without getting unduly tarnished.

Adoptable Animal of the Week by Sara Vonderheide

Dolly (#19597) is an adult female, terrier mixed breed. She is about two years old and weighs a little over 40 pounds. This sweet girl is a little too thin. She was found on the highway the day after Christmas and nobody has come to claim her. She looks like she had been on her own for some time. She likes to roll over for belly-rubs and is still very nervous around all the loud dogs at the shelter. Sadly, she is heart worm positive and will need treatment. Dolly just needs a place where she can be loved and give unconditional love. If you are interested in adopting Dolly, or donating to her heartworm treatment, please contact us (preferably by text): Charla Cooper at 731-234-4421 or Jennifer Smallwood at 731-609-0408. You can also check out our Facebook page, Hardeman Adoptable Animals, Inc. HAA, Inc. is a 501©3 not-for-profit organization. Adoption fees are $125, and this includes all vaccines, spay/ neuter, and care while at the shelter. If you are calling to report a loose dog, please call Animal Control at 731/658-2884. To call the shelter looking for a lost dog or to speak to a volunteer, please call 731/659-3040 and leave a message. Need to have your dog OR cat spayed or neutered? Need to have it done for free? Contact us to find out how you can do that!

Check out our Facebook page or our website (www.hardemanadoptableanimals.org) for information on the progress of our new shelter! Come be a part of our future!

Since Tennessee now has a Shelter in Place Order due to CO-VID 19, we are closed for intake and the shelter is temporarily closed to the public. We are an essential service, along with entities that provide food, shelter, and other services for the health and well-being of animals.

Viewing dogs for adoption is by appointment only, and we request supply donations either be left at the scales DURING OPERATING HOURS, or arranged by contacting by TEXT 731-234-4421, or 731-609-7552.

Mosquitos are already back in TN. Please make sure your pets are up-to-date on their heartworm prevention. It only takes one bite to infect an animal. Heartworms can be deadly, and treatment is difficult on a pet. Please talk to your vet about how to keep them safe

ill Hoping for a Season

The Bolivar Lions Club baseball and softball hopes of starting the 2020 season on April 21 may have been dashed, but hopes still remain kids can play ball this summer, even it is a bit late.

"We're still hoping to play," said Baseball Commissioner Bobby Hensley. "We've still got time."

Most seasons begin in late April and conclude the first week in June, but due to the COVID-19 virus, the season might be played as late as June or even July.

And although this may make Bolivar teams playing in the annual World Series, scheduled for July, a bit tough, it's unlikely the rest of the country would be ready any quicker.

"In response to the Coronaviurs and Dizzy Dean Baseball and Softball, we recommend that you follow the decision of your local school board or health department. We will make any adjustments necessary to make your teams eligible for tournament play at the appropriate time," reads the Dizzy Dean National website.

Dizzy Dean also announced the sanctioning date for leagues has been moved from April 15 to June 1.

I went through my scouting note book, decided to check out areas to put a pop-up blind at and away I went scouting for fresh sign. Finally decided on a place for the first mornings hunt and popped the blind up. Jerry Stokes would be my hunter. Jerry owns a huge car dealership in S. Tips for a Raised Bed Garden by Carolyn Tomlin

For Tennessee gardeners, late to mid-April is the long-awaited season for tilling the soil and planting seeds. Perhaps you once grew a large garden that supplied your growing family and fed neighbors. However, now you've downsized and no longer need as much produce.

But that doesn't mean you should stop gardening. I've discovered that a raised garden can fulfill those same needs. In fact, two saw-horses, wire tomato cages, an old wooden door from a thrift shop, and a heavy-duty livestock feeding trough make a sustainable garden project. These tips will allow you to grow herbs and vegetables as you continue this hobby. And it's an undertaking that men, women, and children will enjoy.

- Two saw horses
- One standard size door
- Heavy-duty plastic livestock feeding trough (about 4-ft. x 8-ft.)
- Small potted vegetables and herbs (2 of each; patio tomatoes, cucumbers, okra, bell peppers, eggplant, onions, chives. Squash takes too much space)
 - Garden soil, builder's sand, aged manure, peat moss
 - · Hand trowel and fork
- Tomato cages

- 1. Using an electric drill, bore 1-inch diameter holes, 5-inches apart in bottom or trough. Cover with several layers of newspaper. Avoid color print.
- 2. Locate with at least 6 hours sun daily.
- 3. Place and center door on top of saw-horses.
- 4. Fill with 4 parts soil to 1 part aged manure, 1 part peat moss, 2 gallon of sand. Mix well.
- 5. Draw a plan and set out established plants. Place tomato cages over plants as everything grows upward, thus reducing ground space.
- 6. Use a water-soluble fertilizer weekly.

Practical Tips

Like other lessons about life, these methods have been used successfully for generations. I've discovered they work. They're organic. And no helpful insects or wildlife are harmed by hash chemicals. I like to think my garden is like God intended it to be: butterflies hovering about, hummingbirds staking out their territory, and song birds serenading me as I putter about. Try these down-home suggestions:

- Rubber snakes on top of tomato cages keep hungry birds out
- Moth balls ward off squirrels
- Marigolds, chives, onions keep flying insects away
- Crushed eggshells around base of plants discourage crawling slugs and snails
- Epson Salt (1 T. to 1 gallon water) encourages bloom growth
- Plant flowers that encourage pollinators nearby (phlox, salvia, buddleia)
- Allow night crawlers or fishing worms to till the soil.
- When okra or cucumber leaves become large, remove a few as these large leaves shade other plants.
- Water when rain is insufficient.

A raised bed can give hours of enjoyment, feed a single person or a couple, and produce spring, summer and fall vegetables. Children will enjoy having their own special garden while learning about the world of
