From the Other Side of the Desk

I'm not writing a column this week. Don't bother reading the rest of this if you are looking for anything entertaining, informative or about me turning 50, the Oakland Speed Trap, or baseball.

And without those three things, I haven't had really anything to write about.

The reason I'm not writing about turning 50 is that for those of you who have already done it, it's no big deal and for those of you who haven't it just sounds like some old guy complaining or explaining something that really doesn't matter.

The reason I'm not writing about Oakland this week is that I haven't gotten a ticket there in more than seven years and I'm sure they have changed over there and are no longer just sitting where the 55 turns to 45 waiting to catch someone going 45.0001 mph. Well, someone from outside of Fayette County going 45.0001, that is.

The reason I'm not writing about baseball is that it is over and I'm worn out. To the core. I went to Southaven forty-seven days in a row and the heat index never dipped below 135 degrees.

I may be exaggerating some of these numbers, but as I said, I'm not writing a column this week, so what's the difference? It seemed like it was that hot, so it must have been true. Also, when I left the house this morning, my truck headed that way until I remembered I get to stay in Bolivar for a while.

As far as other subjects go, I've got nothing to offer. Please enjoy the other 17.9 pages of this week's edition.

But anyway, I'll be back with something fresh, new and interesting next week.

Bolivar to Open Pleasant Run Creek Park

The City of Bolivar will officially open Pleasant Run Creek Park in the coming weeks, beginning with an event for the Bolivar-Hardeman County Library.

The park has 170 acres, featuring walking trails, a fishing lake, green spaces, and disc golf, with plans for expansions that include picnic tables and a possible arboretum walking trail.

Pleasant Run Creek Park has been in the works for approximately four years, clearing land and creating trails for walking and more holes to the nine-hole disc golf course already in place.

On August 5, the park will be open for a color run event that will benefit the Bolivar-Hardeman County Library. The event is $15 per person to participate.

Community of Hope Holds Event

Community of Hope, a Hardeman County based organization dedicated to creating strong communities and reducing the need for foster care, held an event on Johnson Street in Bolivar on July 25.

Part of a national effort, the communities involved were selected by the Casey Family Program (CFP) group after analyzing geospatial data to enhance the understanding of where a community's most vulnerable children and families live.

Joining together were the Bolivar-Hardeman County Library, Bolivar Police and Fire Departments, Bolivar General Hospital, and other local businesses for the event which served food, drinks, and snacks to local children. Local Business Partners with MHDS

A local program is pairing workers from the Madison-Haywood Developmental Services (MHDS) with area businesses.

Gaylon Tilley has been receiving support services from MHDS since 2005. He is friendly and outgoing with many friends and is recognized for having a good sense of humor and caring about the feelings of others.

El Ranchito in Bolivar hired Gaylon after he completed a work site assessment. Knowing that those who have come for assessment often had no previous experience or abilities to fulfill the demands of the job, El Ranchito has welcomed each one and accepted them where they are skill wise. When they employed Tilley, it was with the understanding that they would be providing some on-the-job training.

Tilley performs custodial duties Sunday through Thursday with the

OUR COUNTY

Hardeman County Remembered by Lisa Coleman

Remembering the anniversary of men landing on the moon (July 20) reminds me not only of that incredible event, but of something that happened just four years later in the summer of 1973 that has become a great story within our family.

Every summer we would take a car trip and explore some part of America. Some trips were long and took us to far-flung places out West; other places were closer to home like Tennessee's magnificent Great Smoky Mountains. These trips are some of my most cherished memories of growing up as we were encouraged to explore and learn as we traveled, but we enjoyed lots of time together as a family and had picnics many days in some pretty breathtaking places — in the middle of Yellowstone and overlooking the Gulf of Mexico just to mention a couple.

Mom and Dad always tried to get my maternal grandmother, Alma (Smith) Kiestler to go with us but she always had a reason not to...except for one year. Somehow or the other they talked her into going on a 2-week trip with us that included trips into deep West Texas, Mexico (from which, she was fairly certain we would never find our way back), and the Grand Canyon (where she kept a death grip on my brother as she was absolutely positive that he would fall into the canyon, never to be seen again). She talked about how much she enjoyed that trip for the rest of her life.

While each day and each stop along the way, she had stories to tell, it is one afternoon that became the stuff of family legend. We were driving across New Mexico one July afternoon. It was shortly after we had stopped for lunch and everyone was in the quiet-after-lunch-zone in the car as we traveled across the New Mexico desert, a place of beautiful desolation. My Granny was in the backseat with my brother and me, and out of nowhere she said, "That's where those fellas were." Someone asked her "who?," and she said, "those fellas who thought they were on the moon. They just got lost flying around in the dark and landed here in the middle of this desert and picked up a bunch of rocks and came back. They didn't go to the moon!" She was graveyard-honest-to-goodness serious, and kept saying "they just landed that rocket in the desert and thought it was the moon!"

Now being good children of all things space-related, my brother and I immediately launched into the 5,237 reasons why we believed that they did in fact land on the moon and most certainly not in the middle of the New Mexico desert. Mom and Dad were also trying to explain to her why the New Mexico desert was not the moon landing spot. Granny finally silenced the cacophony in the car by saying, "I know they did, that out there looks just like those moon pictures, and that right out there is where they landed."

We never, ever in her entire life ever convinced her that the moon landing was real and that the astronauts were not lost in the middle of the night in the New Mexico desert.

For the record, y'all, she thought TV wrestlin' was real, but that is a story for another day.

Library Hosts Poetry Workshop by Calley Overton

The Bolivar-Hardeman County Library hosted a poetry workshop which was taught by Memphis author Alice Duncan. The workshop focused on the works of Pulitzer Prize winning poet Gwendolyn Brooks and the use of literary devices such as couplets, enjambments, and repetition. Duncan emphasized the importance of precision and revisions when trying to publish saying, "Revised revisions make poetry ring."

The poetry workshop is one of the many programs the library has hosted this summer. For a complete listing of all their activities and times, visit their facebook page or stop by and check out a book or video, contribute to their Million Penny Challenge and visit the Common Grounds Coffee Bar.

Adoptable Animal of the Week by Sara Vonderheide

Claire (#16254) is a female terrier mix. This poor little girl has been at the shelter for more than six months now. She is about a year old and only weighs 25 pounds. This beautiful girl is looking for her special forever home. She has lots of energy and a high prey drive. She needs a home where she has a secure fence to play in and where she is the only dog. She is GREAT with people, but has her quirks about other dogs. She cannot go to a home with cats. She has lots of love to give. She has a very short coat and is already housebroken. She will make a great house dog and family member. If you are interested in adopting Claire or any of our wonderful dogs at the shelter, please contact a volunteer: Charla Cooper at 731-234-4421 or Jennifer Smallwood at 731-609-0408. You can also check out our Facebook page, Hardeman Adoptable Animals, Inc. You can also come to the shelter. We are located inside the county landfill (Walton Road), and volunteers are there between 9-1 each day. HAA, Inc. is a 501(c)3 not-for-profit organization. Adoption fees are $125, and this includes all vaccines, spay/neuter, and care while at the shelter.

HAA is always in need of volunteers and donations. We operate solely on donations and fundraising. The shelter is run by volunteers and has no paid staff. If you would like to donate to the shelter's general fund, sponsor a specific dog's adoption fee or vet bills, or send a memorial or honorary, please mail a check to HAA, Inc., PO Box 513, Bolivar, TN 38008.

COMMUNITY NEWS

Silerton

Mary Lynn Lambert
609-6455

Mr. and Mrs. John Tyler Harris (Katie) announce the birth of their son. They named him Siler Jack. There will be a celebration of his birth at the Silerton Baptist Church with a baby shower on Sunday, August 6 after worship service.

The fifth Sunday potluck meal is set for July 30 at the Silerton Baptist Church after worship service. Make plans to attend.

The July 4th fireworks that was rained out will not be rescheduled. The mayor and town council are looking forward to a big show next July 4.

Jacie (Stack) Reagan and her son, Zachary Komula, visited in Silerton for several days. Zachary, an Army Staff Sergeant, finished his tour of duty in Vilseck, Germany. He will be stationed at Fort Campbell, Kentucky for the next three years. Relatives were very happy to visit with him. Zachary is a Healthcare Specialist and stated that he was very busy. He took advantage of his leave dates to visit many countries and tourist sites: Berlin, Prague, Czech, Munich, Hamburg, Wiesbaden, Frankfurt, Spain, Manchester, England and Helsinki, Finland. Zachary served one tour in Afghanistan and two tours in Iraq in Artillery. When questioned about the German attitude regarding the United States, he felt overall it was positive. Because the news was in German, he was unable to understand what the media was reporting about the United States and the election. Overall, he felt his German friends were happy to see Trump elected. When he traveled to other countries, he wore European attire to keep a lower profile. Zachary has eight years before he can retire from the military. He stated he enjoyed his stay in Germany and would like to go back for his next tour.

Jacie Reagan and Zachary Komula were pleased that her parents, Lee and Frances Stack, hosted a cookout in their home on Tuesday, July 18. The cookout allowed them to visit with extended family while visiting in the Silerton area.

Prayer list: Trudy Stack is doing much better. John and Mary Jean Jordan appreciate our prayers. Andrea Howell had minor surgery and is recovering. Sandy Sanders is having several tests and ask for prayers in her behalf.

Hello to all! Hornsby Baptist Church will have a prayer breakfast August 5th at 8:00 a.m. This is done every year to pray for the schools to have a safe year for students, faculty, staff, and families, we hope you will make time to attend. Everyone had fun Sunday night as they fellowship and played some ball. Some of the children who attended Vacation Bible School, sung some of the songs they learned. I think some of the sweetest singing is when children sing songs about Jesus. They did an awesome job and we are very proud of them. Very excited for James and Sarah Weakley and Matt Moore as they will be attending seminary. If you have any news you would like to share please call or email me. "Operation Christmas Child" and the "Love Thy Neighbor" ministries will be collecting for the month of July cans of mixed vegetables and wash cloths. Would also like to wish "Ashley's Pretzel Concession" to town, they sell pretzels, root beer floats, burgers, corn dogs pizza, tea, lemonade and snow cones. I hear that the burgers are pretty good so if you get the chance go by and help support them in this new business in town. If you have any news or prayer request just call or email me. Please remember to pray for the following: Sydni Aylor, Patricia Baker, Terry Baker, Max Beck, Melanie Bowers, Rick Brown, Ricky Chandler, Amanda Cornelius, Dell Ann Cossar, Deryal Crawfordl, Kenneth Crawford, Sue Day, Elynor DeBerry, Bobbie Dorris, Shirley Emerson, Esther Galigher, Richard Hazelwood, Sue Hodge, Diane Holmes, Dewey Hopkins, Ann Hornsby, Jo Edna Howell, Wade Howell, Charley Johnson, Ann Kelly, Aubrey King, Jamie King, Debbie Laster, Nell Maddox, Bobbie McBride, Betty McMahan, Evan Nield, Lockie Newman, Josh Overton, Timmy Parchman, Gay Pierce, Prissy Poirier, Gail Pope, Tosha Powell, Paula Prince, Cindy Pulse, Keith Raines, Terry Reed, Stacy Spence, Ronna Spoon, Gary Valter, Josh Walton, Eddie Webb, Elaine Wharton, Greg Wilson, the men and women who serve our country, the family of Nina Floyd, the families of the ones who are fighting cancer. Toone

gnyarb@bellsouth.net

"Howdy" and "Hey" from the friendly Town of Toone, where "Hot" and "Humid" are the words on everyone's minds these days! Summer temps continue to bear down on us as we all look for ways to beat the heat. I doubt you could find an air-conditioner anywhere that is not working overtime, and shade trees and swimming pools are the most popular spots in town right now. If you do have to be outdoors for whatever reason, please be careful of the heat, and drink lots of water! It may seem hot right now, but at some point this coming winter when that cold, blistering wind is blowing against your face and the ground is covered with snow, we will be longing for these sunny, hot days of summer!

As hot and uncomfortable as it seems to many of us, this is very beneficial weather for our local timber and sawmill operations, which as you all know, are the economic backbone of our Toone and Hardeman County economies. While the ground is this dry, the loggers are able to get into the woods to harvest the trees that they haven't been reachable due to the heavy rains and flooding we have had so far this year. And as you can guess, when the loggers can't supply enough logs to the sawmills, the mills have to cut back production and lay-offs occur. So, as hot as it seems to most of us, remember how beneficial it is to others!

Please keep our neighbor, Charlie Brown, in your thoughts as he recovers from a facial surgical procedure. I saw him last week, and he said he is feeling much better and really appreciates everyone's concern and well wishes.

Clover Chapel Baptist Church, celebrated their church's "Homecoming" on August 20. They had a good turn-out, and everyone enjoyed a day of love and fellowship.

Clover Chapel also enjoyed a special day they cal "Pastor's Love Day", on July 23. The congregation invites everyone to their Sunday worship services at, 710 Anderson Lane, in Cloverport.

The new Toone School PTO officers have been named for the 2017-2018 school year. They are:

- Joanna Young Harwood-President;
- Lynn Sterling-Vice President;
- Natalie Hooper Sowder -Treasurer;
- Heather Escue Brooks-Interim Secretary

As always, the PTO has a busy year coming up full of fund-raisers and special events for the kids and staff at TES. Volunteers are always needed, so please contact any of the PTO officers, or contact the school at: 731-658-5606. Your help is always welcome and much appreciated!

I know that many of our Toone-area kids are still playing in post-season baseball and softball tournaments around the area. We wish them and their teams the very best of luck, and we are proud of them all. If your child, or grandchild, is involved in any of these events, please share their successes with your friends and neighbors by simply calling the number above. We look forward to hearing from you! Until next time . . . talk to your neighbors!

Clever Doesn't Work Here

by Jimmy Sadler

There was a day we fell for everything. Most of us bought into the "As seen on TV" promises when we were kids. There is something gimmicky to fix most everything. As a pastor, I was even tempted to turn phrases that sounded clever into sage advice. When we are naive and young, we can afford to buy into some of the quick fixes of yesterday. They don't work so well now that we've grown up. Most of us have at least one drawer in the house full of items that promised something that just didn't deliver. We find it hard to throw them away because the smoldering promise still stirs around in our mind. "I might need that fit universal wrench someday that magically adjusts to the right size." The frustration of actually using those nifty but rarely useful ideas keeps them in the drawer or on the way to the nearest Goodwill. Easy workarounds usually don't work for long. I know, I'm the king of them. My personality has me fixing most everything in a way that works, for a while.

Even our superheroes have grown complicated. I absolutely enjoy most of what the Marvel world has produced in the last decade. I'm not a big comic buff, but I have enjoyed the storyline as movies. This year, the lines between good and bad have been muddled, as Batman and Superman turn on each other and Captain America is at odds with much of the Avengers. The once simple plots become convoluted and closer to real life. That's not why I go to the movies sometimes though, I don't want to see real life, I want to see an overly idealized view of good being strong and evil being clearly identifiable. I don't always like those, but at least the ones based in comic books!

Blurred lines, failed promises and personal failures catch up in our sequels. We are human in a fallen world trying to realize perfection. The gimmicks don't work and the heroes have fallen by the wayside. This is the way it should be. If we say we are sinless, we make God out to be a liar. If we think our new study Bible, small group or church building is going to save our faltering faith, we get what we're asking for. I wonder how many new attempts to redirect our lives, reinvent ourselves or create a new business end up in the junk drawer. How many new books promise enlightenment or claim they can finally get you closer to God?

Gimmicks give you short-lived success and the strategies man dream up are flawed. I wish I could go back and never have filled that stupid drawer with so much wasted time. What you and I have missed so often is simply God Himself. I am running back to a place and time when I sat all the helps aside to talk to God. Getting away to pray and read God's Word. I am always amazed at the light that turns on every time I read scripture in the context of devotion and prayer. I encourage you to dump the spiritual junk drawer. Clever doesn't work here anymore. Get to know God by reading and listening to His Word, asking for forgiveness for offenses before they are forgotten, and simply pouring your heart out to Him. Take time this week think about all the "wisdom" unloaded on us in books and television. Read Ecclesiastes chapter 12 and reflect on the need for simplicity of devotion. Love God and follow His Word.

Sunrise: Helping Children

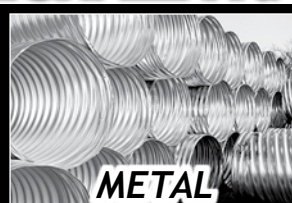

by David Coy

Children's concept of loss whether by death or other causes depends upon many different circumstances. This week we will examine children between the ages of two to four years of age. Their response to grief depends upon different criteria. At this age they view death as reversible. They may show an intense but brief response. Their life is totally involved with the here and now, very much in the present. They may be prone to ask questions repeatedly.

Children in this age group need an understanding tone of voice and demeanor from those adults in their life when a traumatic loss has occurred. It would be helpful to provide an open invitation for them to express what they think and how they feel in whatever way they can, even if they use drawing or some other way of expression. They need to know that our posture with them is one that says, we are together in happy times as well as difficult times of sadness and there are no secrets. It would be reassuring to them if we had been through something similar and could give them the comfort that they and we will take care of one another through all of this.

Children do grieve, just not the same as others. Remember, we are all individuals and will mourn differently, but at this age they are still developing into the Mr. or Miss that we will come to know when they are in their teens. Many factors affect their response: gender, age (mental, emotional development), religious and ethnic customs, and relationship with the deceased or involvement with the loss, prior grief experiences, circumstances of the loss, and etc. Children feel the pain of loss or they radiate the feelings of their guardians. They often express their grief through behavior. Their grief may be internalized or be displayed in a cycle, going from periods of what seems to be normal behavior to periods of irritable or sad behavior. Tales from the Yellow House by Lee McAlpin

The latter part of August at the Yellow House was sweltering hot like it is today. In weather like this, as I mentioned before, immediately after breakfast, Mom would begin covering the four eyes of the cook stove with black iron pots and skillets in preparation of preparing the daily meals before the temperature reached its peak for the day. The house was filled with the aroma of the contents of those cooking utensils which kept me hungry all day. Fresh cabbage, peas, beans, potatoes, corn, and usually fat-back simmered all morning long. At dinner time (lunch), the family sat down to a rib-sticking, delicious lunch of the produce from the garden. We knew that what we had for dinner would also be what we had for supper, (dinner), served at room temperature.. It was just too hot to fire the old stove up for the evening meal. After dinner, Mom would group the bowls of food in the center of the dining table and cover them with a white table cloth where they sat untill the supper meal. We never suffered any effects from E Coli, botulism, ptomaine poisoning or such. Many days in the summer months, the stove had a fire in it all day long while Mom canned all the vegetables and fruit to store for the winter months. She canned everything from corn on the cob to pork sausage. I don't see how she stood the heat, but I guess that we were all somewhat accustomed to it. I remember a lot of times, I would walk into the kitchen where she was cooking. She would stop, wipe her brow and remark, "Seems like all I do is stand in this hot kitchen". Later in life, when she had air conditioning in her kitchen, I would ask her if she remembered saying that phrase a lot. She would just smile and nod her head. Moms are so precious and giving, most times not thinking of themselves in order for the sake of their families. Mom would spend hours peeling and slicing apples to dry in the sun, and shelling peas. She would put the dried apples in a flour sack, along with a pod or two of red pepper, to ward off any wandering insects. She also stored the dried peas the same way. She canned some of the best spiced apple quarters and chow chow that I have ever eaten. Sometimes after the canning season was over, I would ask her to open a jar of this and that. She would tell me that we had better save it for some cold snowy day in the coming winter. And on one of them "cold snowy days in winter," she would open the jars up and prepare a mouth watering country meal for all the family. As I've mentioned before, we did not have any indoor plumbing, but we did have some outdoor plumbing. Our kitchen sink was outside the back door of the kitchen nailed to the wall. Being the innovative sort that country people are, Dad attached a funnel shaped tin bucket to the outside wall on the left of the kitchen door, attached a long metal pipe to the bottom of it and ran the pipe out across the yard into the edge of the cotton patch. You could open the door and pour the dish water into the bucket and it was carried away to the cotton patch, No sewage bills here, and it made a great place to dig big fat earthworms for our fishing trips. My youngest sister Joyce and I usually had the dishwashing chores. We used two dish pans for the process. One for washing and one for rinsing. I was the dryer. I just never could get into dishwashing. I did get into a lot of trouble while drying the dishes. I couldn't resist the temptation of splashing a little water in sister's face, or popping her with the dry towel. And she was happy to see me get into trouble. While I was getting my punishment, she would stand aside and giggle, which made me want to do it all over. I remember a few times that prior to my punishment with the switch for a no-no that I might have done, I would run around the house with Mom and the switch steadily a few paces behind. I would gain ground and bend over, look under the house (no underpinnin) to see where her legs were located and play cat and mouse with her. That worked for awhile until my oldest sister came out the back door and they cornered me between them, where I gave up. The whooping was twice as bad at these times because I got my deserved licks for the deed I done, and extra licks for running. So goes the life of a country boy.

Dizzy Dean Baseball Ends in Hardeman County

Bolivar Dizzy Dean All-Star teams endured a rough time at the Dizzy Dean World Series in Southaven, Mississippi July 20-25.

The four teams in Southaven went 2-15 with only the 12U and 8U teams winning games.

The 8U squad got things started on Thursday, but came up short in three games in pool play before bowing out in the second round of the consolation bracket. Their lone win was a 13-5 victory over Greenville, MS.

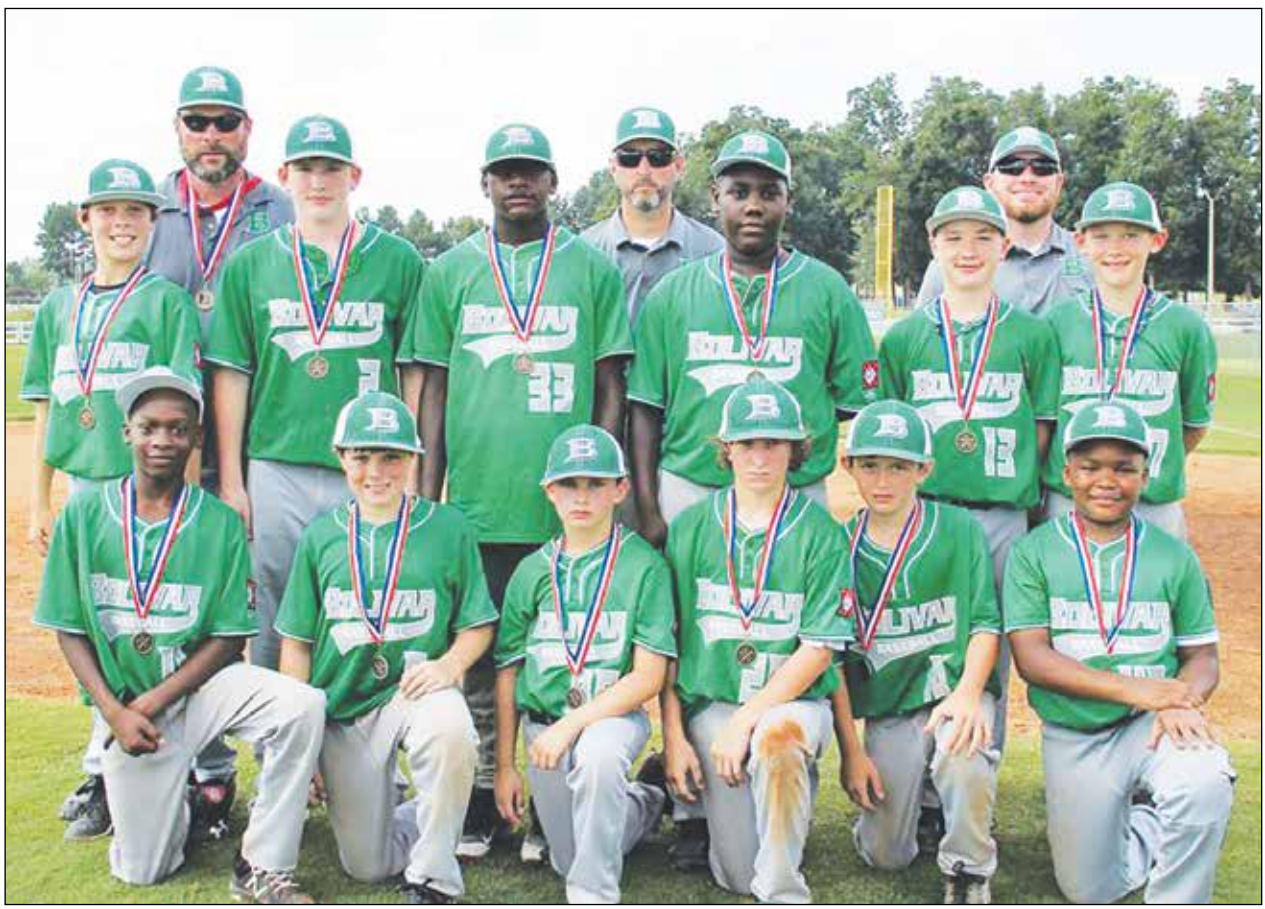

The 6U team lost three pool play games, two of them to perennial powerhouse teams and then dropped two straight in bracket play.

The 10U Bolivar All-Stars lost their three games by a total of seven runs, two of them in one-run contests to bow out in the consolation bracket.

The Bolivar 12U All-Stars got the only other win for Bolivar in the tournament, beating the Germantown All-Stars 12-2 in the first round of the consolation bracket. Tyler Rice pitched five innings for the win and had three hits, including a two-run homer to help his cause. The 12Us then advanced to the championship game of the consolation bracket, but fell to Winthrop Park.
