ONE DOLLAR

From the Other Side of the Desk

Well, many of our nation's mayors have outsmarted themselves and for once, we don't have to pay for it.

When President Trump decided last week not to sign the Paris Climate Agreement that would have the United States hand out 100 billion dollars to the rest of the world, all seemed lost for those who think Al Gore is a scientist and not a carbon-credit snake oil salesman.

But then came the announcement that many big city mayors in the United States have decided that they would pay to honor the agreement.

Well, uh thanks. Why didn't we think of this before?

You see, the air is clean here in Hardeman County. Our polar bears have plenty of ice. There is no reason the Federal Government should take Hardeman County money and send it to Europe, after all, who are we hurting?

But the cities, they are the guilty ones. If anyone is guilty, that is. Big industries, which the cities took away from rural counties, using tax credits and other deals, are the polluters. Way more than us anyhow. Let them pay for their phantom sins while they sit around and smugly congratulate themselves for saving the planet.

Thanks, guys, we appreciate it. Go ahead, tax YOUR citizens and send the money to Greenland or wherever. That'll lower the temperature ;). But please, leave us alone.

Over in Nashville, Mayor Megan Barry fell for it too, saying that "Nashville will lead on this issue." Well, ok, you do that Madam Mayor. You can have all the credit for saving us from climate catastrophe, but none of our money. Ok? Deal.

Finally, politics makes sense. Don't worry, though. I'm sure it won't last.

Showdown at the County Courthouse

Round two of the Hardeman County Commission's battle of the budget is set for June 20 in the Hardeman County Courthouse Courtroom.

Hardeman County Mayor Jimmy Sain broke an 8-all tie to pass the 2017-2018 Hardeman County Budget on the first reading on May 16.

Mayor Sain broke the tie after the debate that centered on the county schools funding. Sain wanted to shave four cents off last years school budget due to a decrease in students in the county, but the schools have asked that the county only cut two cents to bring the rate back to $1.48 from $1.50.

"The county is recovering from a financial crisis. The budget committee has been very successful meeting goals by cutting expenses without asking the schools for concessions. The past two years they could have cut over 15 cents of the school tax rate, but chose not to. This year the budget committee asked the county to cut four cents and the schools to cut four cents. The county has complied," said Sain.

Superintendent of Schools Warner Ross said the schools are sympathetic to the plight.

"We recognize there are challenges at the county level, and we want to work with the county, so we developed our budget at $1.48," he said.

The budget passed in May did not give a tax rate, but Sain says the tax burden will not be increased.

"We have no plans to raise the overall rate of $2.55," explained Sain. "Every surrounding county has a lower tax rate. We need to compete in West Tennessee. That means keeping the rate low and living within our means. Our committee is smart, conservative, and has been proven very successful in the past three years."

OUR COUNTY

Hardeman County Remembered by Lisa Coleman

Whenever I think about summer break from school, I think about a couple of things – our marvelous family car trips and reading. Yep, I'm the kid who couldn't wait for the library's summer reading program and I would read everything on the recommended list and then some.

Reading did not come easily to me and I had to have some extra help from kind teachers and patient parents, and when it finally clicked with me, well, I haven't stopped reading since. This photo is just one of my current "to read" stacks, which covers everything from science fiction to junking/antiquing. I understand Thomas Jefferson's quote, "I cannot live without books", although some may think I am more in line with Louisa May Alcott's quote of, "She is too fond of books and they have turned her mind". Either way, I love books and reading. (And may I say that while I do enjoy reading electronic books from time to time, there is no way they will ever compare with cracking open a book. A book, an actual book, is a treat for all of your senses - the feel of the paper or the cover; the pictures or illustrations; and that marvelous book smell – nope, nothing can replace holding a book in your hand.)

Whether I was reading in my room or under one of the big trees in the backyard, I loved to lose myself in the story – whether I was there with Jo and her sisters or traveling the wide prairie with the Ingalls family or going into space with the astronauts or moving cattle along the dusty trails with the cowboys. I went many places in between the pages of the books and I looked forward to each week's program at the library. (That reminds me of another book quote, this one from Doctor Who, "You want weapons? We're in a library. Books! The best weapons in the world! This room's the greatest arsenal we could have.")

We are blessed in our county to have wonderful libraries and they are all gearing up this month for their summer reading programs. To get all the specific information call the library directly and take the young people, the young readers in your life to the programs. If you have children in your life, read to them or ask them what they are reading. From a love of reading may come a love of writing or storytelling (or both); they might even grow up and write a column in a newspaper or maybe even write a book one day.

Make sure to get the children in your life books and encourage them to read and read to them. Read a book yourself. There are books for all of you at our local libraries. Never stop reading and learning in life. Now if y'all will excuse me, I need to go read just one more chapter; the story is just getting to the good part.

All Nations Church of GOD Presents
A CRY FOR REVIVAL
With Pastor John Kilpatrick
June 15 – 16 at 7:00 pm
1340 North Parkway
Jackson, Tennessee

PASTOR JOHN KILPATRICK was blessed to experience firsthand the Glory of GOD as the Holy Spirit entrusted him with the pastoral oversight of the historic Brownsville Revival in Pensacola, Florida which lasted five years. The revival began June 18, 1995 and continued to around the year 2000. More than four million people attended the revival and experienced a great move of GOD. Some participants called the experience "Being slain in the spirit." Many people fell to floor and shook under the power of GOD. Others remained flat on the floor for hours. Lives were changed as the Holy Spirit took over the atmosphere.

Father's Day is Sunday, June 18. This week, Judy Dillard and Carolyn Vales share thoughts of their dad. They said, "If you knew our daddy, William Chandler, you either liked him a lot or you probably didn't like him at all. He was outspoken and straightforward, one who would tell you what he thought. He was real. He was honest. He was of the era when one would make a deal based on one's word and a handshake. If you were his friend, he would go to the ends of the earth for you. But, if you lied to him or 'stabbed him in the back', he would probably be done with you. All three of his daughters were Daddy's girls. We adored him and spoiled him rotten. He was very proud of us, too, and made us feel special and loved. He loved Christmas, Fourth of July, flea markets, his coffee, farming and most of all his family. He has been gone for twenty years, but old as we are, we still miss him dearly. We would love to be able to visit him on Father's Day again, enjoy his famous barbecue and special sauce that he always made for us. But, especially, we would love to bring him his Father's Day gift and card and see his devilish smile again. We will keep him always in our hearts and memories."

Gwen Lindley and Anne Baird enjoyed their recent trip to Panama City, FL.

Rickey and Jennifer Wilson and children spent several days in Silerton. While they were here, Jennifer's mother, Billie Matthews, from Georgia drove up to visit with them.

Remember the town meeting on Tuesday, June 13 at 5:00. Call if you are interested in sharing memories of your father.

Hello to all! Well I hope everyone is enjoying the Dollar General Store as much as I am. It is so convenient to be able to go get what you need without having to drive too far.

Well ballgames have ended and now All Stars practice has begun; summers seem to get busier every year. Hornsby Baptist kids did not get to enjoy playing kickball Sunday night because of the weather; instead they played corn horn, they also got to enjoy cookies and Kool-Aid. This Sunday night there will be a big group to attend as we all make homemade ice cream and we get to try several varieties. Hornsby Baptist Church will be busy this summer as will some other churches as they prepare for YEP (Youth Evangelistic Program June 25th - 29th) where the youth go out in the county and do missionary work. Also Hornsby's youth will be going on a mission trip to east Tennessee. "Operation Christmas Child" and the "Love Thy Neighbor" ministries will be collecting for the month of June cans of peas and bars of soap. If you have any news or anything you would like to share please call or email me, I would love to hear from you.

There are so many prayer needs throughout the community, county, and our nation, I hope you do take a few minutes each day to pray for these things. Summer Events at Chickasaw State Park

National Trails Day attracted hikers to parks all over the country on June 3 with free guided hikes. Chickasaw State Park participated with a hike around Lake Placid.

National Trails Day was put into place by the American Hiking Association on the first Saturday of June in 1993 to bring outdoor enthusiasts of all kinds together. "While Tennessee State Parks are free to enter year-round, this day is a great opportunity to get the most of your visit. Under the skilled guidance of our rangers, visitors can enjoy the outdoors and learn more about the state parks system that we have been refining for 80 years," said Tennessee Department of Environment and Conservation Deputy Commissioner of Parks and Conservation Brock Hill.

Those looking to fulfill Tennessee Promise Community service hours are invited to Chickasaw State Park on June 24 from 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. to aid in rerouting Owens Spring Trail. All volunteers are asked to bring work gloves, a water bottle, bug spray and wear closed toe shoes. There will be a break for lunch (not provided) from 12:00 p.m. to 1:00 p.m.

Any interested TN Promise students or members of the general public are invited, but students are asked to register in advance.

For more information about park events and a complete listing, call Chickasaw State Park at 731-989-5141, or access tstateparks.com.

Leverage and Weight

by Jimmy Sadler

Recently I built a large head-board, seven feet by seven feet. It required pulling old pallets apart and building a frame to reposition the finished pieces. Pulling the things apart, as some of you may know, is not that easy. It takes some time, patience and sweat. In the end, the thing that made the most difference was to get a heavier hammer with a longer handle. The distance gave it more force and made the job much faster. The even more laborious job of pulling nails followed. The key that, I found, was to find a crow bar of decent length. The extra distance created more leverage for a much easier and faster pull. Once again, when nailing them back down to the new frame, I found a hammer with a longer handle made each swing more productive. It seems that, although distance created greater force with weight, it is quite useful at times like these. In our walk as Christians, our heaviest problems sometimes lie in our past. We can allow the weight to make everything we lift harder or we can ask God to help us use it to leverage our new-found strength under our daily struggles.

I started thinking about some of the tragedies in my life. I was reminded of God's promise to use them to reach out to others. The deaths of family members and early depression in life created open doors for me to empathize with others in hard situations. Now that the sting of those times has subsided, I can leverage the weight of those hardships and others to lift others and help them through their journey.

I remembered a family I mentioned in an earlier writing. This couple, a minister and wife, were traveling to Wisconsin to celebrate the birthdays of two of their children. Scott Willis ran over a brace for a tractor trailer mud flap. The piece of metal jammed into the gas tank and caused a massive fire that engulfed the inside of the van. The couple made it out, as well as their thirteen year old son. The parents were burned but alive. Tragically, the van held five more of their children who did not escape. The thirteen year old son died that evening in the hospital. As I relay this event, tears are streaming down my face. I cannot begin to get an inkling of an idea how I would cope with this event. The dad beat at the van windows to no avail, realizing there was zero chance anyone could have survived the inferno. Still in shock but also in faithful trust, Scott told his wife "God has prepared us for this."

God had led both of these two to His Son, Jesus Christ. The kids trusted and followed as well. The parents knew their fate was wrapped up in Christ. Still, I wondered how the distance of time might have affected the minister's faith. It was no doubt shaken. More than a decade later, he still will not drive with children in the car. He is back to ministry now, and has shared the story of Christ with so many along the way. It seems that God allowed their trials to be a catalyst, a leverage for God's Word to penetrate some hardened souls. Indeed, their faith has challenged me. If they can make it, then certainly I can.

Don't let tragedies, failures or offenses toward you cast an overpowering shadow over your life. Don't resign yourself to allowing time and distance to harden your heart, but use it to leverage and use the weight in a way that will bring about good in an already heavy laden world.

Sunrise: Control

by David Coy

Grief is one of the most difficult pains a person will endure. It is unique to every person and it takes work to recover successfully through mourning. The goal is to live through the deepest valley of sorrow, realizing there is light and hope at the end of the valley. If this sounds bombastic, it is not. I have met with many who felt certain of being in the valley of despair and did not see any way out. We all are creatures of habit and live in a perceived world that we are in control of our surroundings. When we find ourselves in the valley of sorrow, we come to understand at least in part, that we are not in control as much as we think. Someone said recently that in life we should focus on what we can control and not despair with what we cannot control. This is good advice.

The Psalmist records, "I cannot eat, I weep day and night" (42:3). They who grieve deeply, often do not eat or sleep yet they live on, even if they think they are all alone. When such sorrow comes upon us, we grasp after anything that can make sense of what has happened. This is similar to the discussion of Solomon in Ecclesiastes. He examined human wisdom with folly and foolishness. He came to understand that it was like chasing after wind. So is trying to control circumstances beyond our control or blaming ourselves (with assumed guilt) as if we could have brought about a different outcome. I have had clients tell me that as well. We cannot control every event in life. We can and should control what is in our power and seek support when and where we cannot.

Financial Gifts - and Tips - for New Graduates

It's Graduation Season again. If your child is graduating from high school or college, you have reason to celebrate. But what should you give to your newly minted diploma holder? You might want to consider offering a combination of financial gifts and tips, which, taken together, could set your graduate on a path toward a successful, independent life.

What sort of gifts and tips should you consider? Here are a few ideas:

Give a few shares of stock. Everyone should understand the financial markets and how they work. One great way to encourage this interest is to give your child a few shares of stock. Young people enjoy owning a piece of a company that makes the products and services they like - and the very act of ownership can inspire them to learn more about investing and to ask questions: What causes the stock price to go up or down? How long should I hold this stock? Should I own several stocks like this one, or is it better to branch out to find new opportunities? Over time, in learning the answers to these and other questions, your child can become familiar with investing and how to make the best choices.

Encourage your graduate to open an IRA. Your child can open an IRA as long as he or she has some earned income. You might want to suggest that your child consider a Roth IRA, which, at the child's age and income level, may be a good choice. With a Roth IRA, children can access their contributions at any time, tax- and penalty-free. They can't touch the earnings without incurring both taxes and penalties, however, until they reach 59½. But you will want to encourage them to keep the money in their IRA intact, giving it the chance to grow.

Provide some financial education. Unfortunately, most young people don't really receive any kind of formal financial education. Of course, you can try to provide some of this knowledge to your own children, but, as you know, advice from Mom and Dad sometimes gets ignored. However, you might get better results if you arrange for your recent graduate to meet with a financial professional. As mentioned above, owning stocks, and following their progress, can teach your children a great deal about investing, but a financial professional can paint the "big picture" and explain how all aspects of money management - such as borrowing, budgeting, saving and investing - fit together to help individuals stay in control of their finances and make progress toward their important financial goals, such as buying a house and retiring in comfort.

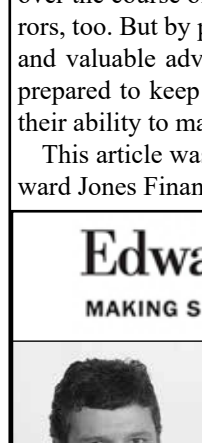

Recent graduates, whether leaving high school or college, are at "turning points" in their lives and can benefit greatly from understanding the importance of developing good, life-long financial habits.

Most of us can think of several money-related mistakes we've made over the course of many years. And your children will make some errors, too. But by providing them with some appropriate financial gifts and valuable advice upon their graduation, they may well be better prepared to keep those mistakes to a minimum - while maximizing their ability to make good decisions.

Farmers Insurance Wins Bolivar Dizzy Dean 6U

Three leagues came down to the final night of play in the Bolivar Dizzy Dean Baseball season before awards and all-stars were unveiled on June 2-3.

The 6U league champion Farmers Insurance clinched their title with a 16-6 win over Nelms Auto Body to end the year at 11-1.

The 6U All-Stars will be coached by Jonathan Hodge. Assisting Hodge are Justin McMahan, Matthew Dorris, and Corey Madden.

The 10U league, which never saw a team have more than a one-game lead during the year, came down to the final night as well. WMOD (see photo below), who held the tie breaker over Merchants and Planters Bank, won their final game to clinch the season title and finish 8-4. The 10U All-Stars will be coached by Darrell Teubner, Jerry Rhodes, and Johnnie Vickers while John Baker and Mikey McMahan will coach the 9U squad. The 10U league will field two all star teams (a 10U and a 9U team) for the third year in a row.

The 12U league title was won by Bolivar Insurance and Real Estate (BIRE), who swept a doubleheader on the final night to take the title with a 9-2 record. BIRE coach Josh Clark will head up the all star team, assisted by Mark Gilliam and Jason Howell.

The 8U league was settled the previous week, with The Gym Health and Fitness Center (12-1) beating our second place Rotary. The Gym manager Russ Kelly will head up the all-star team, assisted by Tim Malone and Stacy Swift.

Middleton High School Receives Greenhouse Grants

Greenhouse management and plant science classes at MHS received a boost from local companies in the form of grants, with Tractor Supply Company donating monies raised during FFA week.

Middleton Chapter FFA was chosen as one of eleven schools in Tennessee to receive a grant in the program. This year's "Grants for Growing" raised $28,130 across the state and Lowe's contributed $5,000 to the greenhouse program.

Plant science and greenhouse management at Middleton High School are taught by Shelby Devore, who says the money will be put to good use.

"Grant money will be spent to purchase materials for the greenhouse and to continue landscaping around campus," she said, adding that students will propagate and cultivate flowers and vegetables while learning to recognize plants in various stages of growth.

FHU Confers Degrees on Three Hardeman County Residents

Henderson, Tennessee –Three residents of Hardeman County were among those receiving degrees at Freed-Hardeman University's graduation exercises Saturday, May 13. In addition to conferring degrees upon graduates, the university presented a master's degree posthumously and the faculty presented the Faculty Scholarship-Leadership Medal, a tradition since 1938.

Students from Hardeman County who were awarded degrees were: Carie Cox, Hornsby, Bachelor of Science Nursing; Tammy Grider, Bolivar, Master of Science in clinical mental health counseling; and Brandon Thurman, Bolivar, Bachelor of Science in psychology, summa cum laude.

An honorary master's degree was awarded posthumously to Todd Walker, who was an associate minister and song leader for the Glendale Road Church of Christ in Murray, Kentucky. Walker, who had earned a Bachelor of Business Administration in management with a minor in Bible from Freed-Hardeman in 1984, was studying for a Master of Arts in New Testament. Unfortunately, he was diagnosed with amyotrophic lateral sclerosis (ALS) before completing the degree. He lost his battle with the disease in May 2015. His family accepted the degree from FHU President Joe Wiley.

In an unusual occurrence, two students received medals from the faculty. The Faculty Scholarship-Leadership Medal is the highest honor the faculty bestows. This year's recipients were Cassie Sikes, who graduated summa cum laude with a Bachelor of Business Administration in management and a Master of Business Administration, and Darren Heintzman who graduated magna cum laude with a Bachelor of Science in Biology.

OUR SCHOOLS

Whiteville Elementary Wraps Up the Year by Becky Dodd

What a wonderful year we have enjoyed at Whiteville Elementary. May was chocked full of events and celebrations. Our Spring Fling was held on Friday May 5.

Students enjoyed a night of fun and games and good food. Students at Whiteville who achieved their individual reading goals were rewarded with a field trip to Incredible Pizza in Memphis on May 8.

More students were rewarded for good behavior on the PBIS field trip to the Fun Zone in Jackson on the 9th. At the invitation of Lane College and Freed Hardeman University our 7th and 8th grade students toured these college campuses on May 10. Our school enjoyed a performance from the Bolivar High School band on Thursday May 11 and that night our school put on our very own MoTown Talent Show.

Whiteville's Field Day was conducted on May 12. The Annenburg School Grant Fund provided each student at Whiteville Elementary with 4 books of their very own to read over summer break. Students selected books on their grade level on May 15. On May 17 Sixth graders attended Education Days at Jackson Generals to celebrate finishing the book, Joey Pigza Loses Control by Jack Gantos. Student achievement was awarded during our Awards Day ceremonies on May 18 and our Eighth graders graduated on May 19.
