From the Other Side of the Desk

I got an email the other day about how Tennessee parents are underpaid.

Yeah, no kidding..

Anyway, the story listed eight jobs parents do and the salaries that (if you could find someone to pay you) that you would earn if you did all of them.

Cooking, cleaning, driving, teaching, personal assistant, laundry, nurse, and psychologist were listed.

And the average salary, depending on how many hours you spent at each, ended up to be about $286,675.20. It didn't say if you could get extra money for multiple kids or if there was overtime involved.

Note: For those of you without kids, believe me, there is overtime involved. A lot of it.

But while the eight categories seemed to cover most of it, I think they skipped a few.

Publicist: Nowadays, no kid worth his salt is without a good publicist. Facebook, Instagram, and Twitter posts have to be made to show them as smarter and more talented than the other kids. And if you don't do it, trust me, no one else is going to do it for you. Market Value: $82,500.

Bodyguard: A kid today needs someone to fight for him. And whether it is playing time at the ballpark or getting him on the honor roll by doing his homework for him or her, it's a job that needs to be done. Market Value: $58,000.

Note: You'll need a smart

A three-week-old tentative agreement designed to resolve the stand-off on funding the schools is teetering in the balance as the Hardeman County Budget Committee altered the Memorandum of Agreement with the Hardeman County Schools.

The change was made during the Hardeman County Budget Committee meeting on June 10 at the Hardeman County EMS Building.

"We want to give the same amount to the schools, but at the same time we need to protect the county," said Sain. "We need to look at the long term."

The Memorandum of Agreement, first discussed on May 21, which had the schools receiving $300,000 each year for the next eight years in exchange for a six cent tax cut, was changed to the equivalent of only what revenue the six cents would bring in those years, an estimated difference of about $600,000 over the eight years.

"We don't need to take school funding away. But we can't pay more," said Sain.

Bobby Henderson, a school board member who attended the meeting, said the changes to the agreement could be a deal breaker.

"I can't speak for everyone, but I feel like if you take item #8 out (the $300,000 per year), we will not agree," said Henderson, saying the schools have not seen an increase in funding over the current rate, in thirteen years.

"I'm glad we are overfunding them. Our goal is to not cut funding," reiterated Sain, saying Hardeman County is ranked #8 in overfunding schools in the state. "But we have to protect us."

brings ($222,000 at 92% collections) by the eight years of the agreement against $300,000 per year. Actual totals would vary, given Hardeman County's higher collection rate and other factors. As the yet unapproved change stands, the tax culated by subtracting what six cents currently rate the schools would receive would go from $1.46 to $1.40, but the schools would receive the equivalent dollars in the form of a donation that would go toward debt service each year.

The Hardeman County School Board was expected to meet June 13 and the county budget committee was expected to convene June 18, just prior to the second reading of the budget and the public hearing, scheduled for 7:00 p.m. at the county courthouse.

Council Gets Hot Over Asphalt

The Bolivar City Council approved on the first reading, the 2019-2020 budget, but some old business caused the biggest stir of the night. While Fowler Construction was awarded the bid to do $150,000 worth of streets in Bolivar, Councilman Jonathan Joy took offense that it wasn't the lowest offer made to the city on June 4.

"Why did we not take the cheapest bid?" he asked, saying A&W Asphalt had the lowest bid, but was not selected for work.

City Attorney Steve Moroney reminded the council they were not obligated to take the lowest bid, but the bid they felt was the "lowest and best" bid.

The bid was written asking for the amount of paving materials that could be bought for $150,000. Fowler, who bid $89.88 per ton, received the bid over A&W, whose bid came in at $85. Mayor Julian McTizic, when asked by A&W owner Wayne Wooden to explain the actions of the council, said the council took the "reference of our department head on jobs done in the city on previous things" in giving the job to Fowler.

After further discussion, which included challenges by Joy and Wooden as to which jobs were unsatisfactory and a subsequent apology to Wooden from councilman Tommy Woods, Joy asked the council to take steps to rescind the award of the bid and reconsider.

After being cautioned by Attorney Moroney as to the possible consequences of breaking a contractual agreement that was put in motion when the bid was approved, Joy went ahead and asked to suspend the Robert's Rules of Order for the purposes of eventually having a revote on the bid.

phone for this job. You'll need it to text the coaches and/or teachers profanity laced texts so he'll she'll you'll get results that will allow the publicist you (see above) to make your point even clearer.

Spectator: The hardest of all of them. You watch, you wait, you cry, and you love your child through failures and successes and YOU stay the same no matter what. Market Value: $0. Zero. Zilch.

Note: But the payoff might be worth more than you can imagine. Wish me luck.

He made the request in the form of a motion and Woods seconded it.

But it got no further, as the council voted 5-2 against suspending the rules, with Tracy Byrum, Melvin Golden, Suzanne Rhea, Page Walley, and Larry McKinnie voting no. Todd Lowe was not present at the meeting.

"One man said something against my company. And other people who don't know me went with it. The job? I don't want it. We are backed up a month now," said Wooden. "I'm here to clear my name. I'm going to get my name cleared. I don't believe it is right."

The adjournment of the meeting did not calm the room, as heated exchanges between Joy and Moroney, and Joy and McKinnie were heard in the council chambers.

The budget, which has no tax increase and a 3% raise for city employees, was passed unanimously by the committee. The second reading is scheduled for June 27 at 6:00 p.m. in the Bolivar City Council Courtroom. A synopsis of the 2019-2020 budget is on A6.

HAA Progressing on the Shelter by Sara Vonderheide

Hardeman Adoptable Animals, Inc. has now seen the end of the second week of construction of the new animal shelter. This shelter will also house Hardeman County Animal Control offices and kennels. HAA is so excited about this move because it will mean happier, healthier dogs. HAA spends approximately $27,000 in vetting expenses each year, and the new cleaner shelter will cut down on those expenses. We plan to move into the new shelter later in 2019, but we still need to complete the outfitting of the kennel building (walls, kennels, etc.), get an exterior fence put up, and finish the renovation of the administration building. If you would like to help with this work by donating time, supplies, or funds, please contact a volunteer. We cannot do our work without the support of the entire county. As a reminder, HAA operates solely on donations and fundraising efforts. Every dollar and every hour makes a difference. To find out how to get involved, check out our Facebook page: www.facebook.com/haainc or our website: www.hardemanadoptableanimals.org, or contact a volunteer: (preferably by text) Charla Cooper, 731-234-4421 or Jennifer Smallwood, 731-609-0408.

HAA will be the highlighted non-profit organization at the Memphis Redbirds game on Father's Day, June 16! Come out to AutoZone Park and support your local shelter and enjoy a day with dad at the ball park! Purchase tickets for $17 each through the link below, and HAA will receive a portion of the ticket sales. https://groupmatics.events/event/Hardemanadoptable

DIFFICULTY:

★ Moderate ★★ Difficult ★★★ GO FIGURE!

Easy Apple (or Peach) Dumplings

1 green apple (Granny Smith or Golden Delicious) and yes, Even Peaches instead! 1 (8 oz) tube crescent rolls 1/2 cup (1 stick) salted butter, melted 3/4 cup sugar 1/2 teaspoon vanilla extract 1/2 tsp ground cinnamon (more, to taste)

 $1 \frac{1}{2}$ tbsp flour

3/4 cup lemon lime soda (Sprite or Mountain Dew)

Instructions

Preheat oven to 350°F degrees.

Peel and core apples or peaches, Cut apple into 8 slices.

Unroll tube of crescent rolls and separate into 8 pieces. On each roll, sprinkle with a bit of cinnamon. Add one apple or peach slice. Roll it up in a nice little bundle.

Continue with next 7 rolls the same way.

Spray an 8-inch square pan with nonstick spray. Place all 8 dumplings into baking dish. Mix together melted butter with sugar, vanilla and flour. Pour butter mixture on top of crescent rolls.

Now take soda and pour it around the edges of the crescent rolls. Sprinkle tops with a bit more cinnamon. Bake in preheated oven for about 35-40 minutes. Serve with whipped cream or ice cream.

FAITH

Jesus as God, Part 4 by Jeff Capshaw

The study of the person and work of Christ is called "Christology," and there are several sub-categories. According to the theologian, Millard J. Erickson, (1) a Christology from below "approaches the person of Christ through investigation of the historical Jesus." On the other hand, (2) a Christology from above "approaches the person of Christ from a doctrinal conception."

A4

Earlier, I suggested that the New Testament does not say in Greek "Jesus is God." However, in numerous places, the New Testament authors attribute deity to Christ. In fact, often the Greek title, kurios, is translated "Lord." That is the word used by the Greek translation of the Old Testament (the Septuagint) for Yahweh, the revealed name of Ancient Israel's God.

Some scholars also argue that Paul never explicitly claims that Jesus is God. The most controversial text on this question is Romans 9:5. However, the argument largely depends on how translators punctuate the verse. Romans 9 begins a lengthy discourse (chps. 9-11) on the place of Israel's election in the new Messianic era, and English translations render Romans 9:5 differently.

For example, the KJV says (v. 5) "whose are the fathers, and of whom as concerning the flesh Christ came, who is over all, God blessed for ever. Amen." Meaning: Christ is blessed by God.

Sunrise: Succeed by David Coy

The RSV has it "to them belong the patriarchs, and of their race, according to the flesh, is the Christ. God who is over all be blessed for ever. Amen." Meaning: Praise be to God.

On the other hand, the ESV says, "to them belong the patriarchs, and from their race, according to the flesh, is the Christ, who is God over all, blessed forever. Amen." The NIV says, "theirs are the patriarchs, and from them is traced the human ancestry of the Messiah, who is God over all, forever praised! Amen." Both mean Christ is God.

The difference isn't a slight one. The text either reads "Christ is God" or "Christ is blessed by God," or "God is to be praised." As Evangelical commentator Leon Morris said, it is "one of the most hotly disputed questions of the New Testament" (The Epistle to the Romans, p. 349).

Paul's original of Romans nor early copies or copies of copies

There is the story of a father who had many sons and who loved one more than the others. The remaining brothers were jealous at the brother beloved so much they sought to kill him, but instead he was sold into slavery and his clothing dipped in blood to make the father believe that his son had been torn and mauled and killed by a wild animal. The father said concerning his grief, "I will go down to my grave mourning." Love indeed is apt to fear the worst concerning the person beloved. Those who can identify with a parent who looses a child can understand the grief and put their heart in the same place as this parent finds themselves.

How often does this parent then rehearse the supposed sequence of events that they believe could have happened in their child's misery! Whether asleep or awake, they imagine and replay events they create in their mind of the wild beast pouncing upon his child, and thinking they hear their child's cry of agony. Why would the parent walk the journey with grief mourning all the way to their grave? Because they refused to they choose to live in their misery in deference to the departed or themselves? There is an old proverb that says, "There are three things that are never satisfied; four that do not say 'enough:' The grave, the barren womb; the earth that is not satisfied with water; and the fire that does not say 'Enough." It describes metaphorically insatiable things in life. With some it may be their grief is insatiable and the reasons remain their Father's Day: Tools Are Great for Father's Day – and for Investors

If you're a dad, you may well be pleased to unwrap some tools as Father's Day gifts. Of course, it might be a stereotype that all men are handy at repairs; women certainly can be every bit as good when it comes to building and fixing things. In fact, the construction process is valuable for anyone to learn – and the same skills that go in to creating and mending physical objects also can be applied to financial projects - such as working toward a comfortable retirement. Here are a few of those skills:

Diagnosing the challenge -

A good craftsperson knows that the first step toward accomplishing any outcome is to assess the challenge. So, for example, if you want to build some bookshelves right into the wall, you'll need to locate the wall studs, determine if you have adequate space for the shelving you want and allow room for future expansion. Similarly, if you want to retire at a certain age, you need to consider the key variables: your current and future income (How much can you count on from your retirement plans?), where you'll live (Will you downsize or relocate? Will you rent or own a house or condominium?) And what you'll do as a retiree (Will you travel extensively or stick close to home? Will you do some type of work for pay or pursue your hobbies and volunteer?).

Assembling the right tools and materials -

To put together your bookshelf, you will need the right tools - saw, hammer, drill, sander and so on - and the right building materials plywood, nails, screws, glue, brackets, moldings and so on. And to work toward a comfortable retirement, you'll also need the right tool - in the form of a long-term financial strategy, based on your specific retirement goals, risk tolerance and time horizon - along with the appropriate materials - the mix of investments you use to carry out that strategy. These investments include those you've placed in your IRA, your 401(k) or other employer-sponsored retirement plan, and those held outside your formal retirement accounts. Ideally, you want a diversified mix of investments capable of providing growth potential over time, within the context of your individual risk tolerance.

Review your work -

Once you've finished your bookshelf, you occasionally may need to make some minor adjustments or repairs in response to slippage, cracks or other issues that can develop over time. As an investor, you also may need to tweak your financial strategy periodically and adjust your investment mix - not necessarily because something is broken, but to accommodate changes in your life, such as a new job, new family situation and new goals. Furthermore, over time, your risk tolerance may change, and this needs to be reflected in your array of investments ...

Consequently, conducting an annual portfolio review with your financial professional should be a priority.

Tools are a big deal on Father's Day. But the construction-related tasks they represent, physically and symbolically, go beyond any one holiday and can be used by anyone interested in working toward a solid financial future.

COMMUNITY NEWS

Silerton Mary Lynn Lambert 609-6455

A big shout out to Bonnie Swift for her hard work in helping to keep Silerton looking good by weed eating and mowing around the welcome signs.

Joe Neal and Jean Cox hosted a small birthday celebration for Mrs. Bessie Harris at their home. Mrs. Harris was 99. She was born May 27, 1920.

On Thursday, May 30, a few Silerton residents attended the monthly Solid Waste Committee Meeting. The Solid Waste Committee voted unanimously to move forward with the plans to reinstate the convenient site in the Silerton and Piney Grove area.

Gilbert and Frances Stack spent 10 days vacationing in the Shenandoah Valley, VA area. From the Massanutten Resort, they traveled to Washington D.C. and visited the Martin Luther King, Franklin D. Roosevelt, the Lincoln and the Jefferson Memorials. They enjoyed a tour of the US Capitol Building, the Library of Congress and a "peek" inside the Supreme Court. The war memorials, WWII, Vietnam, and Korean War Memorials were especially meaningful. They also enjoyed the historical town of Harrisonburg, VA with visits to the Quilt Museum, the Hardesty Higgins House, the VA Museum of the Civil War, the Edith J. Carrier Arboretum and a drive through the Shenandoah National Park with its many scenic overlooks.

Bill and Vonda Siler recently were surprised to meet a very distant cousin from Fort Worth, TX. Shelly Clements is the great, great, great granddaughter of Spencer Siler, one of the original settlers in Silerton. Shelly has a son in the Army stationed in Virginia and she had driven there for a visit. On her return trip to Texas, she decided to drive through Silerton. She saw a farmer standing beside his tractor. She walked over and asked him if there were any Silers living in Silerton. He directed her to the home of Bill and Vonda Siler. After introductions, Bill drove her over to the Jones Cemetery in the Piney Grove community. She was delighted to get pictures of his tombstone. When she was leaving their home, she asked for recommendations on a good motel in Bolivar. Vonda with all her charm and southern hospitality invited her to spend the night with them. She accepted and they enjoyed the evening getting acquainted.

Bill Siler received a call from Doug Siler from Puxico, MO. He is a nephew of the late Dr. Siler. Dr. Siler's father, John Quincy Siler, who was one of the original settlers of Silerton is his great grandfather. Bill stated that he enjoyed talking with him. It is Doug's desire to visit Silerton in the future. He told Bill about his last visit to Silerton 60 years ago, when he was 11 years old.

Remember to call with news or your memories so we can stay connected.

Hello from Toone! I hope everyone is enjoying their summer vacation so far. From what I've seen and heard and read on Facebook, there are several Toone folks enjoying the beaches in Florida and Alabama, and many have made their way to the Great Smoky Mountains and other destinations. For me, it's been mostly yardwork trying to get my place ready for the big Yarbrough Family Reunion At the end of the month. I will admit that it's not as fun as vacationing in a scenic spot, and it requires a lot of extra work getting things done, but having the family together and visiting with everyone is well worth whatever extra effort it requires.

This family reunion is very important to me because it spans many generations of Yarbroughs who have hosted it throughout the years. My Grandfather, Jeptha Yarbrough, and others in the family started this back around 1940 as a 4th of July cook-out, where they cooked a whole hog on a pit dug into the hillside. It was primitive and no frills back then, but most of the family came and stayed the entire weekend. After my grandfather passed away, my father, Paul Yarbrough, continued on with the reunion at our farm here in Toone. During those years, he built a brick barbecue pit and a pavilion where everyone gathered. There were even restrooms at the barbecue pit. After my father passed away, my cousin, Milton Wiggins, took over the reunion and moved it to his home in Memphis. We all gathered there for many, many years, until Milton's death in 1990. My cousins and I then moved the reunion back to the farm here in Toone where we still have it each year. The all-night hog cooks have evolved into everyone bring a dish and buying the meat already cooked. It's not quite as traditional, but much easier as we all have gotten a few years older. I just hope that some of the younger cousins see fit to carry on the tradition after my time has passed.

Taco Bell has partnered again this year with Toone Elementary School for their Summer Reading Program. When the students come to one of the summer programs, or check out books, they can pick up one of the Taco Bell bookmarks. If they read ten books, and list the titles on the bookmark, they can bring it back in to have it signed and get their FREE beef taco and cinnamon twists. Students age 5-13 qualify for this program.

After more years than I can remember, Powers' Grocery, at the Snow White community, is now under new ownership. James Powers, along with his late wife, Maisie, owned and operated the store for several decades. James has now retired and decided to sell the store and enjoy his leisure years. From what I understand, you can still catch James at the store most days when he stops by to sit and talk to his old customers. Be sure to stop by and meet and greet the new owners, the Bowers, and enjoy one of those famous Powers' Grocery burgers or plate lunches.

I would like to say Happy Birthday to my son-in-law, Jason Wells, who has a birthday coming up, June 19. Since they now live in Lexington, Kentucky I don't get to spend many birthdays with them anymore, but I try my best to make it up there for my grandchildren's special days. Happy Birthday, Jason!

OUR COUNTY Guidry Attends 4H Congress

A12

Cooper Guidry, a student at Bolivar Central High School, attended the Tennessee 4H Congress in Murfreesboro this spring. Here is his story:

Hello, my name is Cooper Guidry. I am 15 years old and attend Bolivar Central High School. This year, from March 17th to March 20th, I got to attend Tennessee 4-H Congress in Murfreesboro and Nashville. During this trip I got to see how our government runs, how they debate, and how they vote. I also got to explore Nashville and meet a lot of new people.

The idea for this trip started when I received a letter from Mr. Gary Rodgers, Hardeman County's 4-H Youth Development Agent, saying that I could enter an essay contest to win a trip to Congress. So I wrote the essay, but unfortunately did not get to Congress because of it. So, what happened was that Farm Bureau paid for my trip, thanks to them. I also had to attend a Congress Readiness Day. This day showed what was at Congress and what will be doing during this trip. I also had to learn how to eat like I'm at a fancy dinner. Now my eyes were set for this trip, and when March 17th came along, I was ready. Then, I figured out I would be the only representative from my county. But this did not ruin my excitement for Congress.

So then, my parents took me to The University of Tennessee Extension Center in Jackson. When I got there, I boarded the bus with other people and at noon, we were gone to Murfreesboro. On the way there we made 3 stops at other locations to pick up other people from other counties. Then, we finally made it to our hotel, the Embassy Suites in Murfreesboro. When we got there I had to check in quick and get my sweater to wear. This was because I had to attend a county reporter meeting, to learn how to write this paper. After the meeting, I went to meet a friend from Chester County that I had met on the bus. She showed me to her group of friends and her mom, the chaperone. This would be the group of friends I would be with the whole trip, almost. Then I got to my hotel room, finally. While I unpacked, I met my new roommates. They were four of us, and two beds and a couch pull out bed. Then that evening, my roommates and me headed to a ballroom where we sat and had dinner. While we were eating, the 4-H dancing arts troupe performed a show, showing the history of music in Tennessee. After that, we went back to our rooms and figured out we had to be at breakfast at six in the morning.

After not getting much sleep, I prepared for the long day ahead of us. I went to breakfast and ate with my new friends I had met yesterday. After breakfast we headed to load the buses for Nashville. When we got to the courthouse, our group on the bus headed to state Senate chambers for our meeting. Here, we voted on mock bills and sat in the seats where our Senators sit today. After our session, I got some pictures in the Chambers and we headed for the crowded lunch hall at the nearby Tennessee State University campus. After lunch, we stayed at TSU to go to sessions. During one session, we wrote about what we want to be when I grow up. And another, my friend and me wrote 10 ways to deal with cyber bullying. These showed how to write and how give advice to other people. After this we went to the State Officer Building, here I met my Senator, Dolores Gresham. Here we asked questions about her career, and I gave her a 4-H hat, a gift from our county. Then I met with my two representatives, Johnny Shaw and Ron Gant. Ron Gant was kind enough to give me a Blue Book, a book that shows everything about the government. After meeting them, we headed to dinner. After dinner, we went back to TSU and waited to go back to the hotel. Then when we finally got back to the hotel, we went to a region meeting and went back to my room.

The next day was easier, and our last, we could wake up later, knowing we only had to go to the ballroom that morning. When we got to the ballroom, they had many events. One was the History Bowl, in which one of my friends competed; we had a history of our American flag, which was amazing. Then, Bill Lee, the state's governor, came and spoke to us. Once that was all over, we had to run to our rooms and change since we were going on the riverboat at Grand Ole Opry. It took a while to get there because they had to get everyone on the bus and trying to get everyone on the boat. When we got on the boat, we had lunch, which included burgers, hotdogs, and lots of amazing food. Then, the crew performed their show. This show was interesting because it showed how music in Tennessee has changed over the years. During this, I was walking around the boat, looking at all the people and the views from the boat. But, we could not go downtown due to water levels at the time. Then, after the boat ride, we headed back to the hotel to take a break from all the action. Then, I had to get in my fancy clothes and go to an awards banquet, which was very long, but they had good food. After the banquet, we went to regular clothes because there was a dance that evening. This dance was very fun, and everyone was dancing the night away till like 11 P.M. Then, we went back to our rooms and packed our stuff so we would be ready to leave the next morning.

The next morning was tough, knowing it would be my last day there. I went down to eat breakfast with a group of friends. Then we went to the hall so everyone could leave. Then, at around nine A.M., we left Congress. And we went back to where we were dropped off, and came home and took a nap.

This trip was one I will never forget, and hope to go again someday. That's mostly because of all the great people I met on the trip, and how well organized they had everything. For you parents, who would like for your kid to go on this trip, do it. This is a great way for your kid to learn about our government, meet all sorts of new people, and just have a great time. I would like to thank Farm Bureau and Mr. Gary Rodgers, for letting me go on this trip. And thanks to all the great friends and advisors that went on this trip, this story would not be as good if it was not for you all. This is Cooper Guidry, and this is my story of my Congress

Anyone that has fished in the Hatchie knows the magic these worms can bring.

Yes conditions do help, if the river is below bank level, even a novice can be successful. Like a turkey gobbling, "mums" the word on the location, scouting is a must!!

Catalpa worms (I say ca-ta-be) will just about catch any fish in the river. For me, my primary target is Catfish! Although frozen worms are good, I prefer fresh off the tree. Yes, flatheads (yellar) cats will bite with a gusto also. Hopefully the river will be

"right" (in the banks). I'm looking very forward to my next memory. As always::::: SAFETY FIRST ::::: HOOT

Whiteville Water System Water Quality Report for 2018

Is my drinking water safe?

Yes, our water meets all of EPA's health standards. We have conducted numerous tests for over 80 contaminants that may be in drinking water. As you'll see in the chart on the back, we only detected 7 of these contaminants. We found all of these contaminants at safe levels.

What is the source of my water?

Your water, which is ground water, comes from the Memphis Sand Aquifer. Our goal is to protect our water from contaminants and we are working with the State to determine the vulnerability of our water source to potential contamination. The Tennessee Department of Environment and Conservation (TDEC) has prepared a Source Water Assessment Program (SWAP) Report for the untreated water sources serving water to this water system. The SWAP Report assesses the susceptibility of untreated water sources to potential contamination. To ensure safe drinking water, all public water systems treat and routinely test their water. Water sources have been rated as reasonably susceptible, moderately susceptible or slightly susceptible based on geologic factors and human activities in the vicinity of the water source. The Whiteville Water System sources rated as reasonably susceptible to potential contamination.

An explanation of Tennessee's Source Water Assessment Program, the Source Water Assessment summaries, susceptibility scorings and the overall TDEC report to EPA can be viewed online at https://www.tn.gov/environment/program-areas/wr-water-resources/waterguality/source-water-assessment.html or you may contact the Water System to obtain copies of specific assessments.

A wellhead protection plan is available for your review by contacting Louis Coleman at the Whiteville water treatment plant between 8:00 A.M. to 4:00 P.M. weekdays.

Why are there contaminants in my water?

Drinking water, including bottled water, may reasonably be expected to contain at least small amounts of some contaminants. The presence of contaminants does not necessarily indicate that water poses a health risk. More information about contaminants and potential health effects can be obtained by calling the Environmental Protection Agency's Safe Drinking Water Hotline (800-426-4791).

Este informe contiene información muy importante. Tradúscalo o hable con alguien que lo entienda bien.

For more information about your drinking water, please call Louis Coleman 609-3441.

How can I get involved?

Our Water Board meets on the first monday at 6:30p.m. at the community center . Please feel free to participate in these meetings.

Is our water system meeting other rules that govern our operations?

The State and EPA require us to test and report on our water on a regular basis to ensure its safety. We have met all of these requirements. Results of unregulated contaminant analysis are available upon request. We want you to know that we pay attention to all the rules.

Other Information

The sources of drinking water (both tap water and bottled water) include rivers, lakes, streams, ponds, reservoirs, springs, and wells. As water travels over the surface of the land or through the ground, it dissolves naturallyoccurring minerals and, in some cases, radioactive material, and can pick up substances resulting from the presence of animals or from human activity. Contaminants that may be present in source water:

- Microbial contaminants, such as viruses and bacteria, which may come from sewage treatment plants, septic systems, agricultural livestock operations, and wildlife.
- Inorganic contaminants, such as salts and metals, which can be naturally-occurring or result from urban stormwater runoff, industrial, or domestic wastewater discharges, oil and gas production, mining, or farming.
- Pesticides and herbicides, which may come from a variety of sources such as agriculture, urban stormwater runoff, and residential uses.
- Organic chemical contaminants, including synthetic and volatile organic chemicals, which are by-products of industrial processes and petroleum production, and can also come from gas stations, urban stormwater runoff, and septic systems.
- Radioactive contaminants, which can be naturally-occurring or be the result of oil and gas production and mining activities.

In order to ensure that tap water is safe to drink, EPA and the Tennessee Department of Environment and Conservation prescribe regulations which limit the amount of certain contaminants in water provided by public water systems. FDA regulations establish limits for contaminants in bottled water which must provide the same protection for public health.

Do I Need To Take Special Precautions?

Some people may be more vulnerable to contaminants in drinking water than the general population. Immuno-compromised persons such as persons with cancer undergoing chemotherapy, persons who have under-gone organ transplants, people with HIV/AIDS or other immune system disorders, some elderly, and infants can be particularly at risk from infections. These people should seek advice about not only their drinking water, but food preparation, personal hygiene, and precautions in handling infants and pets from their health care providers. EPA/CDC guidelines on appropriate means to lessen the risk of infection by Cryptosporidium and other microbiological contaminants are available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline (800-426-4791).

Lead in Drinking Water

If present, elevated levels of lead can cause serious health problems, especially for pregnant women and young children. Lead in drinking water is primarily from materials and components associated with service lines and home plumbing. Whiteville Water System is responsible for providing high quality drinking water, but cannot control the variety of materials used in plumbing components. When your water has been sitting for several hours, you can minimize the potential for lead exposure by flushing your tap for 30 seconds to 2 minutes before using water for drinking or cooking. If you are concerned about lead in your water, you may wish to have your water tested. Information on lead in drinking water, testing methods, and steps you can take to minimize exposure is available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline or at http://www.epa.gov/lead/protect-your-family%23water%23water

Water System Security

Following the events of September 2001, we realize that our customers are concerned about the security of their drinking water. We urge the public to report any suspicious activities at any utility facilities, including treatment plants, tanks, fire hydrants, etc. 731-609-3441

Think before you flush!

Flushing unused or expired medicines can be harmful to your drinking water. Properly disposing of unused or expired medication helps protect you and the environment. Keep medications out of Tennessee's waterways by disposing in one of our permanent pharmaceutical take back bins. There are nearly 100 take back bins located across the state, to find a convenient location please visit: http://tdeconline.tn.gov/rxtakeback/

Water Quality Data

What does this chart mean?

- MCLG Maximum Contaminant Level Goal, or the level of a contaminant in drinking water below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MCLGs allow for a margin of safety.
- MCL Maximum Contaminant Level, or the highest level of a contaminant that is allowed in drinking water. MCLs are set as close to the MCLGs as feasible using the best available treatment technology. To understand the possible health effects described for many regulated constituents, a person would have to drink 2 liters of water every day at the MCL level
- for a lifetime to have a one-in-a-million chance of having the described health effect.
- MRDL: Maximum Residual Disinfectant Level or MRDL: The highest level of a disinfectant allowed in drinking water. There is convincing evidence that addition of a disinfectant is necessary for the control of microbial contaminants.
- MRDLG: Maximum residual disinfectant level goal. The level of a drinking water disinfectant below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MRDLGs do not reflect the benefits of the use of disinfectants to control microbial contaminants.
- AL Action Level, or the concentration of a contaminant which, when exceeded, triggers treatment or other requirements which a water system must follow.
- Below Detection Level (BDL) laboratory analysis indicates that the contaminant is not present at a level that can be detected.
- Non-Detects (ND) laboratory analysis indicates that the contaminant is not present.
- Parts per million (ppm) or Milligrams per liter (mg/l) explained as a relation to time and money as one part per million corresponds to one minute in two years or a single penny in $10,000.
- Parts per billion (ppb) or Micrograms per liter explained as a relation to time and money as one part per billion corresponds to one minute in 2,000 years, or a single penny in $10,000,000.
- Picocuries per liter (pCi/L) picocuries per liter is a measure of the radioactivity in water.
- Millirems per year (mrem/yr) measure of radiation absorbed by the body.
- Million Fibers per Liter (MFL) million fibers per liter is a measure of the presence of asbestos fibers that are longer than 10 micrometers.
- Nephelometric Turbidity Unit (NTU) nephelometric turbidity unit is a measure of the clarity of water. Turbidity in excess of 5 NTU is just noticeable to the average person.
- RTCR Revised Total Coliform Rule. This rule went into effect on April 1, 2016 and replaces the MCL for total coliform with a Treatment Technique Trigger for a system assessment.
- T Treatment Technique, or a required process intended to reduce the level of a contaminant in drinking water.

Iron: Iron occurs naturally in our raw water and occasionally accumulates in the distribution system. Iron shows up as "red" or "rusty" water at your tap. Although you do not want to drink water that is not clear, iron is not considered to be a hazard to your health. We test for iron daily and it is usually around 0 ppm. The aesthetic limit for iron is 0.3 ppm.

During the most recent round of Lead and Copper testing, 0 out of 10 households sampled contained concentrations exceeding the action level.

Tigers Preparing for Season with New Coach

New Bolivar Central Football Coach Montrell Craft has only been at work as the head coach for a few weeks, but he sees a chance for good things from his squad.

"We have some key guys coming back in certain positions, such as the offensive line, where we have our most experience," he began. "We are going to rely heavily on our running game and the offensive line."

Craft, who was the Defensive Coordinator in his first year with the Tigers last season, has an eye on the defense as well.

"Not giving up the big play, and if they do score, they are going to have to drive the field. We are going to work on not giving up anything cheap."

Craft said his decision on coordinators will be made when he gets his staff in place.

"Defense has always come naturally to me. As a player, I liked to hit people," he said.

One of his early goals is to help his player become more aware of what is going on in each play.

"When you can think the game through, it slows the game down," he explained. "This will be one of my biggest focuses this season, to get the kids to understand what it going on more so than just knowing what their assignment is."

Craft thinks the future is bright. "It has very good potential. Our 2022 class is very good and our 2023 class of freshmen that are coming in now have good athletes and size. The potential is there."

A 2005 graduate of Bolton High School, Craft went to the University of North Alabama where he was part of the second winningest class in school history, going 44-7. Craft, a defensive end who also spent time at defensive tackle, then went to the Canadian Football League for a year with the British Columbia Lions before being released. He returned to North Alabama and finished his degree in 2011.
