From the Other Side of the Desk

Well, I know who to vote for now. An expert has weighed in. I can just ask Taylor Swift. Yes, the singer/songwriter/political expert (well, to quote Meat Loaf, two out of three ain't bad) has weighed in on who she is voting for and we can thank the idiots who publicize her choice for letting us know. That's sarcasm by the way. Um yeah, and what kind of mayonnaise do you use Miss Swift? I'm on my way to Maxwell's and I need to know. That's sarcasm too... It used to be that newspapers endorsed candidates. Well, not here. We don't. Number one, why would our vote be any more important than yours? Back in the day, newspaper editors probably did know more about the candidates than the public did, but that's just not true anymore. We all got the internet, y'all. By the way, she is 28 years old, 5'10", and worth 320 million dollars according to Google. Why...that's us in a nutshell, isn't it? The girl next door. More sarcasm... If anything, the voting choice of Miss Swift, who doesn't have to worry about her community getting jobs or education or anything else that will in any way really affect her life, might just be the OPPOSITE of who the working man is, the average person needs to place his or her trust in, or maybe not. I don't know who I'm going to vote for. Actually, I'm just not telling you. But I'm pretty sure her point of view and point of reference isn't very close to mine when it comes to...well, anything. Who she is planning to vote for isn't news. It's a waste of time and newsprint. Kind of like this column, sometimes. :) We all get one vote. Yes, Miss Swift, you go vote. Thanks for participating in the electoral process. But remember... who you like, well, it's none of our business. Please keep it that way. Darrell Teubner, Editor

"Political" Intimidation?

The upcoming vote by the county commission to re-zone an area of Hardeman County for the Royal Oak Charcoal Company has caught the attention of a former state representative. Former State Representative Jamie Jenkins (94th District) of Somerville has written a letter to Royal Oak Charcoal promising "24-hour monitoring" if the company goes ahead with plans to build a plant in Hardeman County. Jenkins inserted his business card that identified himself as a State Representative with the letter, but he did not clarify he was a "former representative" until the second paragraph. Jenkins was appointed in 2015 to replace the resigning Leigh Rosser Wilburn. He did not run for the 94th district spot in 2016. State Representative Johnny Shaw says he is upset with the use of the title. "It angers me that someone would lie about their position in politics," he said, promising to take the issue to the State of Tennessee House Ethics Committee. "It further angers me that someone from out of the county would try to hurt Hardeman County and cost us jobs. Before he makes judgements, we hope he would learn the facts." When contacted, Jenkins, who owns property within two miles of the proposed site according to the Hardeman County Register of Deeds, refused to share a copy of the letter. But after he was told it was already in the hands of Hardeman County Mayor Jimmy Sain, he said, "anything in the letter can be used." Jenkins' letter, dated October 7, included, "I am using all of my contacts in the House, Senate, and Governor's office to restrict your operation as much as I can. I am even working with

CoreCivic Raises $$$ for Charities

CoreCivic held its annual Chairman's Charity Golf Classic on October 4, at the Hermitage Golf Course in Old Hickory, Tennessee. The event raised a record-breaking $531,000 – funds that will go to a group of 32 Tennessee nonprofit organizations doing important work for former offenders, victims of crime and abuse, and underserved youth. More than $4.8 million has been raised for charity since the event began in 1991.

"When we planned the first Charity Golf Tournament 27 years ago, we did so with the desire to make a difference for our community, and that is exactly what we've done," said Tony Grande, CoreCivic Charitable Foundation Chairman. "As the Nashville area continues its pace of growth, our nonprofit organizations face the challenge of meeting the demands of that growing population. Fortunately, our friends and colleagues continue to ensure that these groups are supported every year, so they in turn can support so many of our neighbors." "This event is a direct reflection of CoreCivic's longstanding history of community support in Middle Tennessee and around the country," said Grande. "Whether it is through time or resources, we feel a deep sense of responsibility to serve our communities and better the public good."

Adoptable Animal of the Week by Sara Vonderheide

Taylor is a young adult mixed breed. He is about a year old and weighs about 50 pounds. Taylor is heartworm NEGATIVE, up-to-date on shots, and has been neutered. If you are interested in meeting Taylor, contact a volunteer (preferably by text message): Charla Cooper at 731-234-4421 or Jennifer Smallwood at 731-609-0408. You can also check out our Facebook page, Hardeman Adoptable Animals, Inc. You can also come to the shelter. We are located inside the county landfill (Walton Road), and volunteers are there between 9-1 each day. HAA, Inc. is a 501©3 non-profit organization. Adoption fees are $125, and this includes all vaccines, spay/neuter, and care while at the shelter. If you are calling to report a loose dog, please call Animal Control at 731-658-9032. To call the shelter looking for a lost dog or to speak to a volunteer, please call 731-659-3040 and leave a message. Need to have your dog OR cat spayed or neutered? Need to have it done for free? Contact us to find out how you can do that!

Mark your calendars. October 20 will be this year's March of Dogs! The "Howl and Growl Festival" will be going on at the Courthouse Square with food, a pet costume contest, games, and more. If any student needs to complete community service hours and would like to help out HAA at the same time, text Charla Cooper at 731-234-4421.

State Releases Graduation Rates for 2018

Tennessee Education Commissioner Candice McQueen announced that the 2017-18 high school graduation rate held steady at 89.1% percent, the highest graduation rate on record for Tennessee. This year, more than 56 percent of districts with high schools, saw their graduation rates improve when compared to last year's rates.

"Our schools and districts should be proud that once again we have hit our state's highest graduation rate on record while still holding our students to high expectations," Commissioner McQueen said. "By continuing to raise the expectations, we are signaling that Tennessee students are leaving high school with the knowledge and skills to be successful in college and the workforce. This graduation rate is a testament to the work being done by teachers and students in schools across the state."

Under the Haslam administration, Tennessee has set high expectations for both students and educators, and students have made significant gains as a result. As part of this work, the state transitioned to a more rigorous calculation for graduation rates in 2011, and even under the new criteria, rates have continued to rise.

Additionally, the state raised the bar for graduation expectations when the State Board of Education included participation in the ACT or SAT as a graduation requirement for Tennessee students. This year's results are the first to reflect this change in accountability.

ACT Boot Camp at UTM Jackson Center

The University of Tennessee at Martin Jackson Center will host an ACT boot camp from 4:30-8:30 p.m., October 16. The registration fee is $45 per student.

The test prep session will offer quick tips to improve student scores on each of the four test sections. It will also focus on time-saving strategies and study habits as well as provide guidance for answering questions more efficiently. Participants will need to bring a pencil and paper.

Alex Beene, UT Martin adjunct instructor and college and ACT adviser for Fayette County Schools, will teach the course. In five years, Beene has mentored more than 1,000 students who have received a combined total of $4.2 million in scholarships and financial aid.

"Taking Alex's class will help you understand how to manage your time throughout each part of the test," said a former student. "After a session with him, you will feel more at ease about the ACT."

The UT Martin Jackson Center is located in the Ned R. McWherter Center on the campus of the Jackson State Community College. For more information or to register, visit utm.edu/actprep. For assistance, contact the UT Martin Office of Educational Outreach at 731-881-7082.

Jackson State Offers Homeschool Grads Help

Jackson State Community College is inviting homeschool students in the region to campus to learn more about how to take advantage of Tennessee Promise and other federal and state aid, apply for admission, programs of study, dual enrollment credit, and other education opportunities.

JSCC will hold two information sessions for homeschool students on Tuesday, October 16, from 4 to 6 p.m. and Thursday, October 18, from 10 a.m. to 12 p.m. All homeschool students, families, and homeschool groups in West Tennessee are invited to attend these free sessions.

"We want to provide this opportunity for students to be sure they are taking advantage of all of the great programs that Jackson State and the State of Tennessee have to offer for higher education," JSCC Vice President of Student Services Brian Gann said. "With a variety of programs available, families may not be aware of all the opportunities their students have to attend college. We will have staff on hand to help with admission applications, the federal FAFSA and state TSAC aid applications, and plenty of time to answer questions and visit campus."

Representatives from Tennessee Achieves and the Tennessee Student Assistance Corporation are expected to attend to offer more information about their programs and how homeschool students can take advantage of them.

Students should park in the parking lot adjacent to the JSCC Student Center and check in for the event in the Student Center lobby.

Students interested in attending the information sessions are asked to register for the event. Registration can be done online by going to www.jssc.edu, clicking on "visit campus" at the top of the page and then selecting the "homeschool information session" of their choice. For questions or more information, please call Jackson State at 731-425-2601.

The Editor's Inbox...Letters to the Editor

I am reminded of an inscription above the arched doorway of a hospital I once read--"The wealth of a nation lies in the health of its people." No one can argue with that. You can be the richest person on the planet; if you don't have your health, you have nothing. That makes accessible affordable healthcare the single most important issue we face as a nation.

Accessible affordable healthcare affects every other aspect of our society—education, jobs, the economy, safety. Simply put, healthy parents mean working parents who send their healthy children to school to prepare for the workforce of the future. Healthy workers take fewer sick days and are more productive. Industries are attracted to areas with a healthy workforce and easy access to affordable care ergo the Haywood Co. Megasite remains unoccupied.

To date, Tennessee has led the nation in rural hospital closures per capita—11 with several others currently in jeopardy. Six of the closures are in West Tennessee—Brownsville, Somerville, Selmer, Trenton, Humboldt, and McKenzie. Bolivar survives for now, only because it is a part of the West TN Healthcare system. When hospitals leave an area, so do many physicians and other medical professionals. All of these hospital closures were due in great measure to the inability of the hospital to absorb the cost of uncompensated care. The law requires emergency rooms to stabilize a patient even when that person does not have the ability to pay.

In the past, hospitals were reimbursed, at least in part, for uncompensated care through the "Disproportionate Share Fund" from the Center for Medicare and Medicaid Services. This kept especially, smaller hospitals afloat. The Affordable Care Act then channeled that same pool of reimbursement money at no cost to the states, to expand Medicaid providing lower income people with the ability to pay for their care. To date, 38 states have either expanded Medicaid or are in the process. Tennessee is not one of them. Our Republican led legislature turned down Governor Haslam's plan, Insure Tennessee, leaving to date almost 6 billion of our tax dollars on the table--sent to other states who expanded.

Let's make sure there are no more hospital closures. Vote for candidates who support the expansion of Medicaid. In this election, They are Phil Bredesen, Karl Dean, Justin Kanew, and Johnny Shaw. (Karl Dean has said he will expand Medicaid on Day 1). The fact is, no matter how much money you have, no matter how great your insurance is, whether you are black or white, rich or poor--if you are an hour away from the nearest hospital when you have an accident or a heart attack, you die. Vote like your lives depend on it, because they do.

Whiteville

Land Trust for Tennessee Looking for Help

By answering just a few simple questions, you can help protect Tennessee land.

The Land Trust for Tennessee conserves farms, parks, forests, historic sites and other natural open space across Tennessee. Since 1999, the nonprofit has protected more than 123,000 acres of land important to Tennesseans and its visitors, including more than 3,100 acres of farmland and wildlife habitat in Hardeman County.

Now, the group is asking community members to answer a few simple questions to help shape their future work in the county and across the state.

"Our work is driven by people who know and love Tennessee, just as we do," said Liz McLaurin, President and CEO of The Land Trust for Tennessee. "With your feedback, we can further our impact and continue to conserve places that truly matter to our communities."

The survey takes approximately five to ten minutes to complete and can be submitted online or by mail. To complete the survey online, visit LandTrustTN.org/ future, or call (615) 244-5263 to request a paper copy.

The Land Trust for Tennessee works with landowners across the state to balance growth with the importance of open space, including land for agriculture. According to data released in July 2018 from UT Extension, Hardeman County's total annual direct agricultural output is estimated at $103.2 million, and indirect impact is $139.1 million. Conserving open space for agricultural strengthens local economies.

Can You Count on a Bountiful Investment "Harvest"?

We're officially in autumn – the season when we bring in what we planted in the spring. But the concept of planting and gathering isn't confined to agriculture. In fact, it can be used in many walks of life, including investing. So what can you do to help work toward a successful investment "harvest"?

Here is (not quite) a bushel of ideas:
Plant the right "seeds." When farmers plant specific crops, they know about what to expect – how long it will take for them to grow, how much yield they'll produce, and so on. When you invest, you too need to plant "seeds" by choosing investments that are designed to help meet your goals. For example, to accumulate enough money for a comfortable retirement, you will probably need to own a reasonable percentage of growth-oriented vehicles, such as stocks – you generally can't expect the type of growth you need by investing solely in fixed-income investments, such as bonds and certificates of deposit.
Nurture your "crops." Agricultural workers are diligent about cultivating their crops through proper irrigation, fertilization and weed control. And if you want to keep your investment portfolio healthy, you also must find ways to nurture it. First of all, you will need to keep adding new dollars regularly, because the larger your overall investment base, the more you can expand its growth potential. But you might also need to do some "weeding" of your own, because over the years, you may have purchased some investments that, for one reason or another, are now no longer suitable for your needs. If that's the case, you might be better off by selling these investments and using the proceeds for new ones that could fill gaps in your portfolio.

Diversify. Farmers may plant a mix of crops: corn, soybeans, flax, legumes, fruits, and so on. Consequently, if one crop fails, it won't sink the farmer's entire business. As an investor, you, too, need to diversify, because if you only own one type of asset class, and a financial downturn hits that asset, your portfolio can take a big hit. But spreading your dollars among stocks, bonds, cash and other investments can help reduce the impact of market volatility on your holdings. (However, diversification can't guarantee profits or protect against all losses.)

Thus far, we've looked at ideas on how you can create a healthy investment crop. But once it's time to actually start harvesting your portfolio – that is, once you begin liquidating parts of it to support yourself during your retirement years – you also need to act carefully. Specifically, you need to establish a withdrawal rate that's appropriate for your situation, based on your age, lifestyle, income sources and other factors. You could be retired for two or three decades, so it's essential you don't withdraw so much during your early years of retirement that you risk outliving your money. A financial professional can help you determine the rate that's right for you.

The agricultural harvest season only lasts a few weeks. But doing a good job of growing and managing your investment crop can help you reap the rewards far into the future.

The Maxwell's Stay-at-Home Gourmet

Beef Empanadas

Ingredients

- 1 package of pre-made pie crust (2 rolls)
- 1 Tablespoon of oil
- 1 pound of lean ground beef - I use 90% lean, however 80% or less will work - just drain off the excess fat before continuing.
- 1/4 cup diced onions
- 1/2 medium diced bell pepper, any color
- 1 teaspoon cumin
- 1 teaspoon minced garlic
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 1 teaspoon chili powder
- 1 cup Mexican blended cheese
- 1 egg

Directions

Preheat oven to 375* Combine bell pepper, onion, garlic and oil and sauté 3 minutes over medium heat. Add hamburger, cumin and chili pepper to the pan and cook until meat is cooked through. Set pan aside and let cool. While meat mixture is cooling, roll out pie crust. Using a bowl or large circle cutter, cut out 6" round discs from pie crust. You should be able to get from each crust making 6 total with a 7th danced out of the leftover dough rolled out. Place 2 - 3 Tablespoons of mixture in the center of each pie disc. Top with cheese. Fold over and seal edges with a fork. Place Empanadas on a cookie sheet. Scramble egg and brush on to tops of each Empanada. Bake in oven for 15 - 20 minutes. Yield: 7 Empanadas.

You can buy all the ingredients in this recipe at Maxwell's Big Star, 200 North Main Street, Bolivar the Friends of the Hatchie River to constantly monitor your activities. Assuming the Hardeman County Mayor is able to muscle his commissioners, like he did at the Zoning board meeting, to approve the rezoning of this isolated pristine farm to Industrial, be assured that you will receive 24-hour monitoring."

Jenkins also wrote that if his letter wasn't heeded "selected politicians will likely be voted out of office."

Hardeman County Mayor Jimmy Sain said people are getting the wrong idea.

"There is a lot of misinformation being distributed about the Royal Oak project. The Hardeman County Commission will be voting on the rezoning and not the environmental permits."

Originally zoned at FAR (Forestry, Agriculture, Residential) the request could re-zone the area east of Highway 179 and north of Mt. Tabor Road to I-2 (Restricted Industrial). The Tennessee Department of Transportation has committed to a $3.1 million price tag to build an industrial access road on Richland Road, which is currently gravel-covered.

When asked, Hardeman County Zoning Compliance Officer Geneva Cossar said that no one had complained about the re-zoning issue except, "land owners from Fayette County."

On October 3, an informational meeting at the Whiteville Municipal Building was attended by approximately 70 people, including Hardeman County Commissioners Chandra Lake, Elvis White, and Viscen C. Morrow, who represent the Whiteville area but actually do not represent the area that is part of the re-zoning issue. The more than 300-acre tract of land is in District 1, represented by Jackie Sain, Mike Madden, and Chris Bell.

At the meeting, the zoning question that will come before the commission was pushed aside in favor of environmental concerns that Mayor Sain later said would have to be addressed by the State of Tennessee.

"The Tennessee Department of Environment and Conservation handles any environmental permits. This agency is a regulatory authority and absolutely will not issue a permit to operate a plant in Tennessee that does not meet all environmental regulations. My research shows that Royal Oak poses no environmental danger to our county and I trust TDEC to confirm that," said Sain.

The commission is scheduled to meet October 16 at 7:00 p.m. Included in the agenda is a public hearing regarding the re-zoning of the Royal Oaks site and a vote on the move.

In the meantime, Mayor Sain said he is happy industry is part of the county discourse.

"We are fortunate to have Royal Oak considering our county," added Sain.

Royal Oak has 10 facilities across the Southeast and is the #1 Hardwood Lump charcoal producer in the United States.

Memories ::::

Like they say, a picture can speak a 1,000 words! I sometimes go through my photo albums (actual pictures taken with a camera) and relive the hunt or fishing trip. Walking down that lane constantly keeps me motivated for the upcoming season. Although changes beyond my control (refuges) are a constant factor, I'LL be THERE! The numbers might dwindle, but, the memories will always made!!

Hard to believe fall weather is finally here, might even have to "stoke" the "stove" !! As always::: SAFETY FIRST::: HOOT:::

Sunrise: Joy and Sorrow by David Coy

I am told the same senses affect our responses of joy and sorrow. There is the idea that there are two kinds of sorrow.
When a person agonizes over the troubles that have come into their life, when they pull back into a closet of despair, that is a bad kind of sorrow. It is said, "The Divine Presence does not dwell in a place of despondency."
The other kind is the grief of a person who knows what they lost. In the same way, when a person is lacking in the significance that comes with living with the Divine Presence, the person does not feel their loss nor strives to fill their void, but lives with empty pleasures is a fool. They that have true joy and experience deep loss, feel that loss deep within themselves and work diligently to rebuild their life. Their heart rejoices with every stone that is laid. (Tales of the Hasidim, p. 231)

There is the old adage "no pain no gain" has much truth and both joy and sorrow may coexist and are not mutually exclusive. To learn acceptance is to be content in whatever circumstances one finds themselves. While this may not always be easy, it is an obtainable goal. Paul the Apostle said, "I am not saying this because I am in need, for I have learned to be content whatever the circumstances. Not that I was ever in need, for I have learned how to be content with whatever

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

After Babel, did God intend for us to continue to be separated? Heavens no! Immediately after Babel (Genesis 11), God set apart a man-Abraham who was to be the patriarch of a new people (Genesis 11 & 12). God promised to bless all the different peoples/races through this one people and that's what He did. The story of the Old Testament is the story of God revealing Himself, through the people of Israel, to all the dispersed and diverse peoples of the world.

Not only did God promise to make Abraham's descendants a great nation and bless those who blessed them. He also promised to curse those who cursed them (Genesis 12:1-3). This is something that Pharaoh of Exodus chapter 1, should have considered. He enslaved the Israelites and oppressed them terribly. He did not consider God in his treatment of the Israelites. He learned, though, that God keeps his covenants and is serious about His plans for this great nation. After the warnings, the plagues, the Exodus, and the Red Sea miracle, Egypt was left a wasteland. It was plundered, picked over, pummeled, pounded, and left without an army. What Pharaoh had commanded to be done to the Israelite male babies was returned to his own house and every home in Egypt. Don't mess with God.

For many months, plagues decimated the Egyptians yet left the Israelites alone. The flies, livestock deaths, hail, darkness, and the deaths of the first born affected the Egyptians and their lands but the land of Goshen and the Israelites were untouched. Pharaoh's magicians acknowledged in Exodus 8:19, "This is the finger of God." The Egyptian officials lost their composure and their fear of Pharaoh exclaiming in Exodus 10:7, "Let the people go, so that they may worship the Lord their God. Do you not yet realize that Egypt is ruined?" Egypt was ruined and God's power and protection for the Israelites was undeniable.

If you were the head of a non-Israelite household who lived through those days, wouldn't you have led your family to seek shelter with those who were demonstrated to be God's chosen people? It is not difficult to envision Egyptians, Cushites, Putites, Midianites, and others placing their faith in God and yoking their own futures and fates with the Israelites. AND THEY DID!

Exodus 12:38 says, "Many other people went up with them..." People of the other nations joined in the Exodus and, according to the Passover restrictions and inclusions in Exodus 12:43-49 regarding foreign people, masses of them became proselytes to the Israelite nation and their God. That was God's plan!

As we conclude this installment in our Bible and Race study, let me name just a few more of the individuals who came to God from other races in the Old Testament. Moses married a black African woman and their marriage was decisively affirmed by God (Numbers 12). Phinehas the High Priest and grandson of Aaron had a name that literally meant "the dark-skinned one." It is widely understood that this High Priest was of mixed Israelite and black African descent. Tamar, Rahab, and Ruth were all women of other races who not only inter-married into Israel, they were fore-mothers of both David and Jesus. David's mighty men included Gittites, Ammonites, Hittites, Zobahites, and one of his wives was a Geshurite. The father of the prophet Zephaniah was a black African. Ebed-Melech was a black African official, in the court of King Zedekiah, who saved the life of Jeremiah (Jeremiah 38). Prophets, priests, royals, and commoners were mixed racially but they were pure theologically. And, that's what mattered to God.

Think about the people of these other places and races. They forsake their idols and identity to be joined to God. It wasn't easy. They had to surrender all. God's arms were open to them and He was beckoning them to come. His arms are still open. Have you forsaken all and joined His people yet? He's making a brand-new people and we will see that in Him we will have a new identity and beautiful new racial unity.

See you next week when we turn to the New Testament.

Amos: A Prophet for Us - Part 5 by Jeff Capshaw

For Amos many covenantal violations were horizontal. They entailed mistreatment of poor people, the oppressed and the downtrodden. Thus, Amos was concerned about social injustices and righting them according to God's standard of justice.

Today we hear much about justice and injustice. We read on the Internet, in print and hear on the news about unethical behavior in the Department of Justice. Moreover, students on college campuses, special interest groups and those promoting identity politics are quick to demand justice for perceived injustices: injustices for which there is no agreed-upon standard. Why is this? It is because there is no absolute standard for justice in America today, and that is a tragedy with devastating consequences.

The Oxford English Dictionary

defines the "just" person as one who typically "does what is morally right" and is disposed to "giving everyone his or her due," offering the word "fair" as a synonym. What is of the utmost importance here--but is missing today--is the morally right. The existence of a moral force necessarily implies an absolute, moral standard: an agreed-upon basis for determining what is just and unjust. Justice and injustice once were the equivalent of good and evil. Unfortunately, that is no longer the case; something has changed.

The most influential thinker in recent times on this topic is John Rawls (following Karl Marx and others). According to the Internet Encyclopedia of Philosophy, "Rawls burst into prominence in 1958 with the publication of his game-changing paper, 'Justice as Fairness.'" The bar for justice was lowered and became totally subjective and arbitrary: not anchored in any absolute standard. The definition for justice changed from "right" to "fair."

So then, what is fairness? What does it look like? Simply put, now days fairness is culturally or group determined. One says X is fair and another says Y is fair, while still others argue that P, Q, R or S is fair. Thus, the standard for justice is no longer a matter of right and wrong or good and evil; it is "fairness" void of any absolute standard to determine it. That is "relativism."

Much moral decline and cultural rot is owed to replacing absolutes with wobbly standards. But Amos says, "but let justice roll down like waters, and righteousness like an ever-flowing stream" (5:24). He invokes an absolute standard for justice; it is God's moral law. That is the only way to ensure real "equal justice for all."

Prayers for Trudy Stack. She is currently hospitalized at Corinth Hospital in Corinth, MS. Wanda Fry is recovering from her surgery and appreciates your prayers.

Gilbert Lee and Frances Stack attended the 61st Nat'l Quartet Convention in Pigeon Forge, TN September 23-29. It is gospel music's largest event. Frances stated that a few of the headliners were the Triumphant Quartet, The Gaithers, The Hoppers, and the Isaacs.

Oliver and Wanda Young attended Oliver's annual Vietnam Reunion of the 7th Artillery, the unit he served with. There were 13 artilleries serving in Vietnam. This year the reunion was in beautiful, historic Williamsburg, VA. They were accompanied by their daughter, Leanne, son-in-law, Richard Willis and granddaughter, Leah Grantham. Wanda said, "It was a wonderful time of renewing old acquaintances and meeting new friends. After leaving the reunion on Thursday we stopped in Gatlinburg for a few days before heading home. Our granddaughter, Sara Grantham Darling, her husband, Kevin, and their daughter, Kensley joined us there. We had a wonderful time enjoying the beauty of God's creation and were blessed with safe travels."

The town council met on Tuesday night, October 2. New business included discussion on plans to go forward with the Holly Beshires Park.

Bobby Naylor wants to remind Harman employees that the annual plant picnic will be held at the Silerton Fire Department Saturday, October 13 around 11:00.

Piney Grove Baptist Church's annual Old-Fashioned Day will be Sunday, October 14 with a pot-luck lunch. Old fashioned activities will follow the lunch. There will be no night services.

Silerton Baptist Church members enjoyed their 5th Sunday pot-luck lunch on Sunday, September 30.

Glenn and Robin Stack spent a few days camping on the Tennessee River at Pickwick. Grady and Carolyn Stack joined them, and they report that they enjoyed the time together.

Mike Alexander, a faithful member of Silerton Baptist Church, has started a new business, Respect: Tombstone Cleaning and Grave Care. He retired from Nursing at JMCGRH. Then he decided to work as a driver for Southwest Transport. He retired from there and decided he likes working. He is very enthused about his business. Soon, he will be attending a work shop in Arkansas to receive certification as a conservator. To his knowledge, he will be the 2nd certified conservator in the State of Tennessee. He cleans old marble, limestone, granite or bronze tombstones and markers. The biodegradable chemicals he uses will kill mold, moss and lichens. He does general grave maintenance such as weed eating, removing old flowers, and leveling the dirt after burial or refilling if the dirt settles and leaves low spots. Mike can be reached at 731-989-9102 if you have any questions.

Toone

Glenn Yarbrough

Hello from Toone, where it appears that summer may finally be over! Yes, those high 80° and 90° temps are now turning into the long-awaited mild 70° temps, which is more normal for mid-October. Now we can finally break out the jackets and light-up those backyard fire pits! But, fall also means more work in the yard raking those pesky leaves that continue to fall. I guess it's a trade off for the milder weather. Happy Fall, Y'all.

I'm sure most of you have noticed the white service trucks around the Toone area installing overhead cable on the telephone poles. This work is part of the the new high-speed internet service that will soon be available from "Aeneas Internet and Telephone" to households and businesses in the Toone area. Officials from Aeneas were in Toone last week meeting with Mayor Jones and some of the board of aldermen members to survey the recent work and discuss future service. I spoke with the Aeneas Project Director and asked him what areas outside of town would be eligible for service. He told me that service would expand with demand from residents. He directed me to their enrollment request website: "fiber.aeneas.com"

This is the site that Aeneas uses to determine where to expand service, so if you would like to have this new internet service available for your home or business, log-on to the website, choose "Aeneas Internet and Telephone", click on "Medon and Toone", then add your address to the map. Also, encourage your neighbors to add theirs. The company has committed to service where demand is strong. The first subscribers should begin receiving this new service by the first of November.

Toone Elementary School First and Second Grade students took a field trip to the Bolivar Fire Department to learn about fire safety. Bolivar firefighters explained what happens when someone calls 911 and why everyone should know your address and phone number. The children also were treated to a tour of the fire station facilities and the fire trucks and uniforms that the firemen wear. At the end of the tour, the firemen treated the kids to popcorn and drinks and gave them fire-hats and coloring books. The next stop on the trip was the Hardeman County Library where the librarians read books to the kids and gave them a tour of the library.

The Toone Baptist Church invites you to come join them for a church bonfire celebration, Saturday, October 20, at the church. Bring the family and your lawn chairs, and join the fun! Should there be a change in the location, I will try to notify everyone next week in this column.

Our good neighbor, Sandi Blankenship, is back home now following a stay in the hospital. Please keep Sandi in your thoughts and prayers as she recovers.

Remember, all of the news I report in this column comes from readers like you. Please contact me via the information in the heading of this column, and share your church, sports, family, and civic organization news.

Until next time. . . . talk to your neighbors!

Middleton Finishes Season at Regionals

The Middleton Lady Tigers finished their season in the first round of the Region 6 tournament at Trinity Christian on October 9, falling to Loretto in straight sets.

The Lady Tigers led the first set 4-3, but gave up seven straight points and fell 25-10. Coach Zeke Craft called a pair of timeouts to stop the bleeding but couldn't make a comeback.

Set two was tied at 10, but quickly became 20-10 and Loretto eventually won 25-17. Set three was more of the same and ended 25-16.

Coach Craft said the season was the toughest in years.

"We played the toughest schedule we have played in years," said Craft. "We just couldn't win the close ones."

Seniors Alana Kennamore, Haley Downen, Brooke Darling, and Ally Sisco played their last games for Middleton on Tuesday night.

Middleton ended their year 14-14, finishing second in the District 12 regular season and in the district tournament, qualifying for the regional tournament for the fifth year in a row.
